America Lets Contracts For First A-Powered Airplanes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—The builders of the B-36 bomber and the General Electric Co. today were assigned the history-making task of constructing an atomic-powered plane that may revolutionize aviation.

Work on the multi-million dollar frame for the plane is to start immediately at the Consolidated Vultee B-36 plant at Fort Worth, Tex. GE will build the engine or engines in its new aircraft gas turbine division at Lockland, Ohio.

A contract with Consolidated Vultee and a commitment with GE for construction were announced by the government late yesterday, less than two weeks after the Navy disclosed that it is well advanced in work on both the hull and motor for an atomic powered submarine.

The two projects, creating uses for the atom undersea and in the air, have been launched with a top priority on materials and talent, but the nuclear powered plane may take several years to build. The first atomic sub is expected to be launched next year.

The Airforce's first announcement gave no details except that "a development contract for an atomic powered plane has been awarded," that Convair will have the "primary responsibility" for the frame and that GE "is to develop the nuclear powered engine."

The two firms will work closely with the Airforce and Atomic Energy Commission.

While there was no estimate of the cost, officials pointed out that construction of the first B-36 bomber cost $19 million and said that the price of the first atomic plane may dwarf this figure.

It is known that $40 million already have been spent on projects to develop an atomic submarine engine, and that the nuclear plane offers even more difficult problems.

Spokesman said, however, that the big study group known as "NEPA" (Nuclear Energy for the Propulsion of Aircraft) has definitely determined that the plane is possible. After four years of research and experiment at Oak Ridge, Tenn., NEPA completed its study last April 30.

One of the major questions left unanswered in the official announcement was whether the plane will operate on a propellor or jet principle.

Since the atomic motor involves the application of heat to drive a turbine, it is expected that the jet principle will offer the most advantages.

Both the Airforce and Navy use turbines to drive propellors in the so-called turboprop planes, but the main purpose of these is to conserve fuel. They would fly faster if the turbines were permitted to operate on a jet thrust principle.

Since the atomic plane will have almost unlimited range and virtually no weight of fuel—a few pounds at most to fly around the world—it theoretically could use the jet thrust and fly at its maximum speed for months at a time.

Whisler Is Given Shakeup

Jet Is Blamed For 'Explosion'

The generally-quiet village of Whisler, located in the southeastern corner of Pickaway County, was rattled wide-awake Wednesday afternoon.

And modern science is being blamed for the bit of excitement.

At about 3:55 p. m., homes and business houses in Whisler were jarred and shaken, but no damage was found.

However, a few nerves were frayed and there was plenty of conversation along the village streets for the balance of the day.

The sounds—described as similar to violent explosions—came close together, perhaps one blast followed by echoes.

• • •

ONE EAR-WITNESS said that it sounded like a "huge charge of nitroglycerin."

But science-wise observers blamed it on a sound which Pickaway County may hear frequently in the future—Mother Nature's strange reaction to jet-powered aircraft flying at supersonic speeds.

The unusual phenomenon no longer is really a phenomenon in modern aviation circles. Such reports have been heard in Ohio since World War II. Dayton and Cincinnati have reported a couple of such instances.

Washington C. H. had one last Fall and Wilmington was shaken within the last month.

U.S. Airforce spokesmen have said that, briefly, the sound is man-made thunder. Man turns this trick when he climbs aboard a jet aircraft, climbs to unusually high altitudes and then noses the jet straight downward with the throttle wide open.

In such a power dive, the plane travels faster than the speed of sound.

• • •

NEARING EARTH, the pilot pulls the plane out of its dive. But the sound, speeding to catch up with the plane, continues in a straight line, hits earth with ear-splitting force.

As a result, there comes the window-rattling such as that experienced by Whisler Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Harley Moss, operator of the village grocery, said that "the whole place rattled." Villagers scurried into the streets and tongues wagged with new subject matter.

Charles Weidinger, Circleville insurance salesman who was in the village on business, described the sound as "like two explosions in quick succession and then a trailing-off of sound as if a string of freight cars had been bumped one after another."

There were no reports of blasting in the vicinity, adding weight to the theory that a jet plane could be blamed.

A spokesman for Lockbourne Air Base said "it could be," adding that "some of our men are out on duty flights all the time."

The Whisler incident came soon after seven huge RB-45 jet bombers arrives at Lockbourne,

Erring Doctor Cleared In Deaths

VERMILLION, S. D., Sept. 6—Dr. Louis F. Michalek, 28-year-old scientist who picked up the wrong bottle and injected fatal dosages of methadone, has been cleared of any blame in the deaths of two willing participants in a pain relief experiment.

A coroner's jury heard evidence for an hour and a half yesterday and found no evidence of intent or culpable negligence on the doctor's part.

Victims of the mistake were Jack Clifford, 30, and Mrs. Ardys Pearson, 26, both University of South Dakota employes.

ARCH ENEMIES FOR YEARS, Philippine Foreign Minister Carlos Romulo and Japanese Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida (left) engage in a friendly chat as they meet at the Japanese Peace Treaty Conference in San Francisco. Romulo later told newsmen that "I am welcoming Yoshida not in the spirit that bygones be bygones, but in the spirit that bygones must not be repeated."

CITY MANAGER IS GOAL

15 Names On Petition For City Commission

A nominating petition seeking election next November of 15 persons to membership in a Circleville charter commission was filed Wednesday in Pickaway County board of elections office.

The filing was part of a move to institute a city manager form of government here. Another petition was filed last month which will ask voters in November the question: "Shall a commission be chosen to form a charter?"

At the same time voters will be asked to select the members of the commission, limited by law to 15. Each voter will be asked to choose "not more than 15" names from the list contained on the ballot. An unlimited number of other petitions can be filed.

If the answer to the first question is negative, then the selection of the 15 members will automatically be voided.

• • •

THE NOMINATING petition, containing the names of 15 persons proposed for membership on the commission, was signed by 41 residents of Circleville, was circulated by Third Ward Councilman George Crites. The non-partisan nominees are as follows:

Robert L. Brehmer of 581 North Court street, Ben H. Gordon of 112 Northridge Road, Edward L. Montgomery of 108 Seyfert avenue, John M. Magill of 119 Seyfert avenue, Annette G. Will of 144 West Mound street, Emmitt L. Crist of 171 Montclair avenue, Richard Simkins of 513 South Court street, Wilson R. Clark of 966 South Washington street, Robert E. Adkins of 144 Montclair avenue, Kenneth M. Robbins of 709 North Pickaway street, Richard W. Penn of 507 Spring Hollow Road, Harry E. Graef of 345 East Main street, Dorothy E. Jonnes of 151 West Main street, George D. Young of 134 East Union street, and Lee H. Cook of 379 East Franklin street.

All persons seeking nomination to the proposed charter commission are to file petitions with the board of elections. Space will be provided on the ballot for those seeking to become members of the commission, and additional space will be provided for write-ins.

Lad On 'Hot' Bike Is Held By City Police

A 14-year-old Cleveland boy was apprehended in Circleville Wednesday after taking $50 from his mother, stealing a bicycle and running away from home.

The youngster was picked up by city police here after he had traded his stolen bike with a youngster near Circleville.

Authorities said the lad left his home in Cleveland last Sunday, planning to travel to North Carolina to his sister's home.

However, enroute to Circleville he broke several of the spokes on the rear wheel of his "hot" bike, and traded with a local youngster.

Thursday the bikes were traded back and the youngster and the stolen wheel were being readied for return to Cleveland.

MacArthur Slated To Give Talk Following Reception In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Sept. 6 — Gen. Douglas MacArthur arrives in Cleveland today to deliver an address which may draw the attention of world diplomats.

A civic welcome has been arranged for the general's first visit to Ohio, including a parade through flag-lined downtown Cleveland following his arrival at the local airport.

MacArthur will speak at 8 p. m. tonight in Public Hall. It will be his first public talk since the Japanese peace treaty meeting began in San Francisco.

Ohio Gov. Frank J. Lausche and other state and local dignitaries will head the persons to greet the general upon his arrival at the airport.

School children will be let out of classes early to catch a glimpse of the official motorcade as it proceeds the 15 miles to downtown Cleveland.

A private reception for a select group of invited guests will be held in mid-afternoon in the general's hotel suite and then the general will seclude himself to devote the remaining time to his address.

He is expected to discuss the Japanese peace treaty now underway in San Francisco and other national and international affairs.

Tomorrow morning, the general will visit and give brief talks at several Cleveland industrial plants and later place a wreath on the grave of Newton D. Baker in Lakeview cemetery. He is expected to depart for New York shortly after noon.

West Still Holding Top Hand In Treaty Parley

ALLIED UNIT RESCUED

Ridgway Urging Change In Truce Talk Location

TOKYO, Sept. 6 — An air-supported relief column rescued an Allied unit—trapped by a surprise Red attack—in a sudden outbreak of bitter fighting on the West Korean front tonight.

While Red leaders considered an Allied demand to change the location of the bogged-down truce parley, a tank-supported Chinese Communist regiment launched the attack before dawn this morning on the west bank of the Imjin river.

Shortly before noon, as the battle mounted in intensity, one Allied unit was cut off. But swarms of Allied planes rose to the attack and blasted the Red troops with their Russian-made tanks to clear a path for the ground rescue unit by nightfall.

Returning Allied pilots said they spotted 10 enemy tanks during the battle.

• • •

AT LEAST two enemy tanks were reported destroyed. A Russian-type Yak fighter plane supported the Red ground action. An Allied spokesman said there was no immediate indication that the Reds were opening a major offensive in the area of Yonchon, northeast of Seoul.

The rest of the western front was quiet and in the east, UN troops, including the American Second Infantry Division, surged forward from captured Bloody Ridge and ran into what was described as "moderate" resistance from Red troops.

On the cease-fire talk question, United Nations headquarters awaited a reply from Red leaders on an Allied call for a fresh start in the parley.

General Ridgway once again blasted the Red delaying tactics in a strongly-worded message and called for selection of a site other than Kaesong for the talks which have been suspended for two weeks.

He strongly hinted that he wants an area policed both by the United Nations and the Reds to avert any further trumped up Communist charges of truce zone violations.

• • •

AN AUTHORITATIVE Tokyo source indicated that the UN supreme commander believes it would be preferable to talk aboard a neutral ship off the Korean coast, but said Ridgway is likely to let the Reds make the first suggestion on a new location.

Ridgway suggested this afternoon that liaison officers from both sides meet "immediately" at Pan Mun Jom on the edge of the Kaesong truce zone and decide on a better place to continue the parley which was broken off by the Reds Aug. 23.

When the UN commander early in July accepted a Red proposal to talk cease-fire in the Korean war, he suggested the Danish hospital ship Jutlandia as a neutral site for the parley.

But the Reds countered with a proposal of their own and the 38th Parallel border city of Kaesong was agreed upon. It was also agreed that the area within a five-mile radius of Kaesong would be respected as a truce zone.

October Draft Total Hiked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — The Defense Department today announced that the draft rate is being increased to 44,600 for October.

At the same time, the draft call for November was set at 35,700—29,000 for the Army and 4,700 for the Marines.

The previous figure set for October was 41,000. The department said 36,000 of the draftees will be assigned to the Army and 8,600 to the Marine Corps.

Solons Say U.S. Develops 'Terrible' New Weapons

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — A senator said today that the U.S. has developed "terrible" new weapons which can prevent any possible foe from using the dread hydrogen bomb, poison gas or germ warfare against this country.

The statement was made by Sen. Young, (R) N.D., a member of the Senate military appropriations subcommittee which has received top-secret testimony about weapons.

Young said that "President Truman was on sound ground when he said the weapons we have are 'fantastic.' " The President stated in San Francisco Tuesday that "fantastic new weapons" could "wipe out civilization."

Young declared: "We have made great strides in the development of new and more terrible weapons of war than ever have been known before.

• • •

"THE FACT that we have them would prevent any possible opponent from using such weapons as poison gas or germs or the hydrogen bomb."

Another senator declared that if the "Russians ask for it, we could take care of them" with the new weapons. He said the story of their development is the "best on earth" but cannot be told at this time for "obvious" reasons.

Chairman O'Mahoney, (D) Wyo., of the Senate appropriations subcommittee, disclosed that a top board has been coordinating all weapons development.

His description suggested a setup similar to the secret World War II Manhattan Project which produced the atomic bomb.

Comments by members of the O'Mahoney subcommittee indicated amazing developments outside the atomic field. O'Mahoney himself merely said that progress has not been confined to the atomic area.

Senators who have heard the weapons story denied it concerned the hydrogen bomb or poison gas.

O'Mahoney declared: "I know that the individual and scientific genius of America is still outstripping the world and Russia knows it. That is why Russia does not want to precipitate war, but wants to needle us into disunity, confusion, fear and lack of faith in our own system."

GAMBLERS TO CHIP IN

U.S. Senate Tax-Boosters Nearing $6 Billion Mark

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — The Senate Finance Committee neared the end of its tax-writing job today with a measure touching $6 billion in new revenue.

Tag-end problems remained for the committee to dispose of before reviewing the entire measure and taking a final vote, perhaps tomorrow. The bill should be ready for Senate consideration by the middle of next week, with time out for preparation of a report.

Biggest addition to the measure came in adoption of the House-approved gambling tax, estimated to raise $400 million in new revenue.

The levy would apply a 10 percent tax on non pari-mutual gaming, numbers and lotteries and a $50 annual tax on persons who take such wagers.

But this comfortable increase in revenue was trimmed to a net of $170 million by other actions during the day of voting which cost a total of $230 million in revenue.

• • •

THESE INCLUDED postponement of the capital gains tax for homeowners who use the profit from sale of a dwelling to buy another within one year.

The committee finally lengthened the one year period of grace to 18 months for the taxpayer who is building a new home. This benefit would cost the treasury an estimated $112 million a year.

Another loss came in adoption of a House provision liberalizing the depletion allowances to cover some additional minerals. These would cost about $67 million a year.

One of the few remaining problems to be considered was relief or new corporations under the excess profits tax. Chairman George, (D) Ga., said he thought they were entitled to some special consideration.

Iran Premier Faces Revolt

TEHRAN, Sept. 6 — Opposition members in the lower house of the Iranian parliament staged an "absentee revolt" today against Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and blocked, at least temporarily, his ultimatum to Britain.

By staying away from the chamber, the opposition prevented the assembling of a quorum needed to ratify the ultimatum which won the approval of the senate yesterday.

The ultimatum would give Britain 15 days to resume talks on the oil nationalization dispute before Iran expels all British technicians from the Abadan refinery, the world's largest.

Ohio Election Probe Starting

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6—A staff of investigators is here today to gather information for the forthcoming Senate investigation of the 1950 senatorial election in Ohio.

A five-man team headed by John P. Moore, chief counsel for the Senate subcommittee on privileges and elections, is inspecting expense statements filed with the secretary of state's office.

The staff also will collect evidence on literature used in the campaigns of the successful Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio's "Mr. Republican," and defeated State Auditor Joe Ferguson.

Kansas Relieved As Rains Stop

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 6 — The rain stopped and the sun came out today over flood - stricken Eastern Kansas, brightening the chances of the water - soaked region to escape a second critical overflow in less than two months.

Instead of the previously predicted 31-feet depth, officials said the Kaw river should go no higher than 29 feet. That would be seven feet below the crest of the $2.5 billion flood which swept through Kansas and Missouri in July.

LONDON, Sept. 6 — Buckingham Palace announced today that King George will return to London from Scotland Saturday for a new physical checkup.

The new examination probably will include x-rays of the king's chest in view of his contmued susceptibility to colds.

Gromyko May Pull New Quickie

Meet Runs Ahead Of Schedule

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6—The 52-nation Japanese peace conference, rescued from Soviet stalling maneuvers by Presiding Secretary of State Dean Acheson, swept forward today toward an expected windup by Sunday.

The first 48 hours appeared to have given the Anglo-American conference leaders the upper hand, leaving Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to face a "take it or leave it" decision from now on.

Launched officially Tuesday night by President Truman with an opening address, the conference is running some twelve hours ahead of the most optimistic predictions after weathering Gromyko's bristling attacks on the rules of procedure and eleven attempts to derail swift progress.

• • •

VICE-PRESIDENT Percy Spender of Australia called the fourth business session to order at 12:10 p. m. (EST) and touched off statements by nations listed to make known their views on the treaty. Acheson was seated with the American delegation.

Speakers yesterday were, in addition to the American and British delegates, Mexico, the Dominican Republic, Bolivia, Chile and Russia.

On the list for today, in addition to El Salvador, were Norway, Haiti, Nicaragua, Egypt, Laos, Ceylon, Pakistan, France and the Philippines.

Within the next 24 hours of the deliberations, scheduled to end with a treaty-signing ceremony this weekend, Gromyko is expected to provide the answer to the big question dominating the conference atmosphere since yesterday's hectic opening business sessions.

That question is whether Russia will remain for the balance of the parley or walk out in a dramatic protest against the American-British draft of the treaty—a gesture which might be aimed at enlisting the sympathies of Asiatic nations.

• • •

NEVERTHELESS, some non-Communist diplomats attending the conference clung to the belief that the unpredictable Russians and their satellite delegations from Poland and Cezchoslovakia might yet sign the peace treaty as is, despite their vociferous opposition.

Indeed, New Hampshire's Republican Senator, H. Styles Brid-

North Ireland Meat Shunned

BELFAST, Sept. 6 — Belfast butchers have an unhappy position in the meat-short United Kingdom—they can't even sell the little meat they have.

The meat ration in Northern Ireland, as in England, Scotland and Wales, is about 22 cents worth of beef per person and the price is about 42 cents a pound for inferior quality steak.

So housewives in Northern Ireland go in "meat buses" to the Irish Republic and buy prime steak at 32 cents a pound.

ALLIED UNIT RESCUED

Ridgway Urging Change In Truce Talk Location

TOKYO, Sept. 6 — An air-supported relief column rescued an Allied unit—trapped by a surprise Red attack—in a sudden outbreak of bitter fighting on the West Korean front tonight.

While Red leaders considered an Allied demand to change the location of the bogged-down truce parley, a tank-supported Chinese Communist regiment launched the attack before dawn this morning on the west bank of the Imjin river.

Shortly before noon, as the battle mounted in intensity, one Allied unit was cut off. But swarms of Allied planes rose to the attack and blasted the Red troops with their Russian-made tanks to clear a path for the ground rescue unit by nightfall.

The rest of the western front was quiet and in the east, UN troops, including the American Second Infantry Division, surged forward from captured Bloody Ridge and ran into what was described as "moderate" resistance from Red troops.

On the cease-fire talk question, United Nations headquarters awaited a reply from Red leaders on an Allied call for a fresh start in the parley.

General Ridgway once again blasted the Red delaying tactics in a strongly-worded message and called for selection of a site other than Kaesong for the talks which have been suspended for two weeks.

He strongly hinted that he wants an area policed both by the United Nations and the Reds to avert any further trumped up Communist charges of truce zone violations.

AN AUTHORITATIVE Tokyo source indicated that the UN supreme commander believes it would be preferable to talk aboard a neutral ship off the Korean coast, but said Ridgway is likely to let the Reds make the first suggestion on a new location.

Ridgway suggested this afternoon that liaison officers from both sides meet "immediately" at Pan Mun Jom on the edge of the Kaesong truce zone and decide on a better place to continue the parley which was broken off by the Reds Aug. 23.

When the UN commander early in July accepted a Red proposal to talk cease-fire in the Korean war, he suggested the Danish hospital ship Jutlandia as a neutral site for the parley.

But the Reds countered with a proposal of their own and the 38th Parallel border city of Kaesong was agreed upon. It was also agreed that the area within a five-mile radius of Kaesong would be respected as a truce zone.

October Draft Total Hiked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — The Defense Department today announced that the draft rate is being increased to 44,600 for October.

At the same time, the draft call for November was set at 35,700—29,000 for the Army and 4,700 for the Marines.

The previous figure set for October was 41,000. The department said 36,000 of the draftees will be assigned to the Army and 8,600 to the Marine Corps.

Solons Say U.S. Develops 'Terrible' New Weapons

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — A senator said today that the U.S. has developed "terrible" new weapons which can prevent any possible foe from using the dread hydrogen bomb, poison gas or germ warfare against this country.

The statement was made by Sen. Young, (R) N.D., a member of the Senate military appropriations subcommittee which has received top-secret testimony about weapons.

Young said that "President Truman was on sound ground when he said the weapons we have are 'fantastic.' " The President stated in San Francisco Tuesday that "fantastic new weapons" could "wipe out civilization."

Young declared: "We have made great strides in the development of new and more terrible weapons of war than ever have been known before.

* * *

"THE FACT that we have them would prevent any possible opponent from using such weapons as poison gas or germs or the hydrogen bomb."

Another senator declared that if the "Russians ask for it, we could take care of them" with the new weapons. He said the story of their development is the "best on earth" but cannot be told at this time for "obvious" reasons.

Chairman O'Mahoney, (D) Wyo., of the Senate appropriations subcommittee, disclosed that a top board has been coordinating all weapons development.

His description suggested a setup similar to the secret World War II Manhattan Project which produced the atomic bomb.

Comments by members of the O'Mahoney subcommittee indicated amazing developments outside the atomic field. O'Mahoney himself merely said that progress has not been confined to the atomic area.

Senators who have heard the weapons story denied it concerned the hydrogen bomb or poison gas.

O'Mahoney declared: "I know that the individual and scientific genius of America is still outstripping the world and Russia knows it. That is why Russia does not want to precipitate war, but wants to needle us into disunity, confusion, fear and lack of faith in our own system."

U.S. Senate Tax-Boosters Nearing $6 Billion Mark

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — The Senate Finance Committee neared the end of its tax-writing job today with a measure touching $6 billion in new revenue.

Tag-end problems remained for the committee to dispose of before reviewing the entire measure and taking a final vote, perhaps tomorrow. The bill should be ready for Senate consideration by the middle of next week, with time out for preparation of a report.

Biggest addition to the measure came in adoption of the House-approved gambling tax, estimated to raise $400 million in new revenue.

The levy would apply a 10 percent tax on non pari-mutual gaming, numbers and lotteries and a $50 annual tax on persons who take such wagers.

But this comfortable increase in revenue was trimmed to a net of $170 million by other actions during the day of voting which cost a total of $230 million in revenue.

* * *

THESE INCLUDED postponement of the capital gains tax for homeowners who use the profit from sale of a dwelling to buy another within one year.

The committee finally lengthened the one year period of grace to 18 months for the taxpayer who is building a new home. This benefit would cost the treasury an estimated $112 million a year.

Another loss came in adoption of a House provision liberalizing the depletion allowances to cover some additional minerals. These would cost about $67 million a year.

One of the few remaining problems to be considered was relief or new corporations under the excess profits tax. Chairman George, (D) Ga., said he thought they were entitled to some special consideration.

Iran Premier Faces Revolt

TEHRAN, Sept. 6 — Opposition members in the lower house of the Iranian parliament staged an "absentee revolt" today against Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and blocked, at least temporarily, his ultimatum to Britain.

By staying away from the chamber, the opposition prevented the assembling of a quorum needed to ratify the ultimatum which won the approval of the senate yesterday.

The ultimatum would give Britain 15 days to resume talks on the oil nationalization dispute before Iran expels all British technicians from the Abadan refinery, the world's largest.

Ohio Election Probe Starting

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6—A staff of investigators is here today to gather information for the forthcoming Senate investigation of the 1950 senatorial election in Ohio.

A five-man team headed by John P. Moore, chief counsel for the Senate subcommittee on privileges and elections, is inspecting expense statements filed with the secretary of state's office.

The staff also will collect evidence on literature used in the campaigns of the successful Sen. Robert A. Taft, Ohio's "Mr. Republican," and defeated State Auditor Joe Ferguson.

Kansas Relieved As Rains Stop

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 6 — The rain stopped and the sun came out today over flood - stricken Eastern Kansas, brightening the chances of the water - soaked region to escape a second critical overflow in less than two months.

Instead of the previously predicted 31-feet depth, officials said the Kaw river should go no higher than 29 feet. That would be seven feet below the crest of the $2.5 billion flood which swept through Kansas and Missouri in July.

New Checkup

LONDON, Sept. 6 — Buckingham Palace announced today that King George will return to London from Scotland Saturday for a new physical checkup.

The new examination probably will include x-rays of the king's chest in view of his contmued susceptibility to colds.

Gromyko May Pull New Quickie

Meet Runs Ahead Of Schedule

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6—The 52-nation Japanese peace conference, rescued from Soviet stalling maneuvers by Presiding Secretary of State Dean Acheson, swept forward today toward an expected windup by Sunday.

The first 48 hours appeared to have given the Anglo-American conference leaders the upper hand, leaving Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to face a "take it or leave it" decision from now on.

Launched officially Tuesday night by President Truman with an opening address, the conference is running some twelve hours ahead of the most optimistic predictions after weathering Gromyko's bristling attacks on the rules of procedure and eleven attempts to derail swift progress.

* * *

VICE-PRESIDENT Percy Spender of Australia called the fourth business session to order at 12:10 p. m. (EST) and touched off statements by nations listed to make known their views on the treaty. Acheson was seated with the American delegation.

Speakers yesterday were, in addition to the American and British delegates, Mexico, the Dominican Republic, Bolivia, Chile and Russia.

On the list for today, in addition to El Salvador, were Norway, Haiti, Nicaragua, Egypt, Laos, Ceylon, Pakistan, France and the Philippines.

Within the next 24 hours of the deliberations, scheduled to end with a treaty-signing ceremony this weekend, Gromyko is expected to provide the answer to the big question dominating the conference atmosphere since yesterday's hectic opening business sessions.

That question is whether Russia will remain for the balance of the parley or walk out in a dramatic protest against the American-British draft of the treaty—a gesture which might be aimed at enlisting the sympathies of Asiatic nations.

* * *

NEVERTHELESS, some non-Communist diplomats attending the conference clung to the belief that the unpredictable Russians and their satellite delegations from Poland and Cezchoslovakia might yet sign the peace treaty as is, despite their vociferous opposition.

Indeed, New Hampshire's Republican Senator, H. Styles Brid-

North Ireland Meat Shunned

BELFAST, Sept. 6 — Belfast butchers have an unhappy position in the meat-short United Kingdom—they can't even sell the little meat they have.

The meat ration in Northern Ireland, as in England, Scotland and Wales, is about 22 cents worth of beef per person and the price is about 42 cents a pound for inferior quality steak.

So housewives in Northern Ireland go in "meat buses" to the Irish Republic and buy prime steak at 32 cents a pound.

Gromyko May Pull New Quickie

ges, who arrived in San Francisco last night, reported that the general consensus in Washington is that Gromyko and his team would "raise a lot of hell" and then end by signing the pact.

Bridges came to the Golden Gate City to act as one of the signers of an American-Japanese mutual defense treaty slated to be formalized the day after conclusion of the peace agreement.

The peace conference site was buzzing with growing rumors that if the Soviet bloc decides to withhold its signatures from the peace pact, Gromyko might fly straight to Peiping and summon a conference of Asiatic nations, including Red China.

Such a parley, if held, would be keyed to the purpose of erecting a Communist - controlled front of Asiatic countries pledged to oust Anglo-American influence from the Orient under the slogan of "Asia for the Asiatics."

* * *

HOWEVER, Gromyko's Kremlin-directed intentions remained cloaked in deepening mystery which generated lively speculation on whether he still has some further surprise up his sleeve.

Experienced statesmen — including Secretary of State Acheson who won the permanent presidency of the conference by reason of his astute handling of Gromyko's futile filibuster attempts—indicated their belief that the Soviet deputy foreign minister had not yet fired his big guns.

Acheson, surprised at his election, said he was "pleased that things have gone so quickly and well so far."

His use of the phrase "so far" was taken to mean the Gromyko-led Communist bloc is expected to produce some new maneuvers designed either to block or shock the conference.

John Foster Dulles, principal architect of the treaty draft, expressed surprise over the fact that the conference had moved some 12 hours ahead of schedule. He said he had not expected debate to begin until today, whereas the statements of the delegations, including the Russian, were launched yesterday.

* * *

STILL TO BE heard from were the delegations from Communist Czechoslovakia and Poland. They were not listed to speak today but are expected to deliver their pronouncements possibly tomorrow.

There was little doubt that the Czech and Polish delegates would fully back up Gromyko's scathing onslaught upon the American-British treaty draft—a document which the Soviet diplomat denounced as a pact "not for peace, but for war."

The Russian delegation chief laid before the conference yesterday a blueprint of the kind of peace agreement his government would prefer.

He listed 13 points which he called "amendments" but which however will not be submitted to voting because of procedural rules barring any alterations of the Anglo-American draft. Gromyko called for:

1. Japanese recognition of Red China and the latter's claims to Formosa and other islands as well as recognition of Russian sovereignty over South Sakhalin and the Kuriles which the Soviets now occupy.

2. Restoration to Japanese ownership of the Ryukyus, Bonins, Marcus and other islands over which America now holds trusteeships.

3. Withdrawal of occupation forces from Japan within 90 days after a peace treaty takes effect and the banning of foreign bases on Japanese territory such as are contemplated in the American-Japanese mutual security pact.

4. Payment of war reparations by Japan.

5. Inclusion of Red China and Outer Mongolia among the treaty signatories.

6. Japan's guarantee to respect the "fundamental freedoms" of her own people.

7. A Japanese pledge against revival of "fascist and military organizations."

8. A Japanese guarantee to enter no "military alliances" against any of the World War II allies.

9. Limitation of Japan's armed forces to 150,000 troops, 25,000 naval personnel, 20,000 airmen, 200 tanks, 75,000 tons of naval vessels and 350 planes excluding bombers.

10. Restriction of military training to home defense needs.

11. A ban on development in Japan of atomic, bacteriological, chemical and rocket weapons.

12. Unlimited development of Japan's "peaceful" industries and commerce.

13. Demilitarization of the strategic Tsushima Strait between Japan and Korea.

Protestantism Losing Influence Now, Is Belief

DELAWARE, Sept. 6 — Dr. Paul Hutchinson, editor of the leading Protestant undenominational weekly, the Christian Century, said today that Protestant influence in the world is weakening.

Addressing more than 500 ministers and laymen of Ohio at a meeting at Wesleyan university, Hutchinson blamed the trend on loss of contact with labor in most of Europe, the chaotic conditions on mission field in Asia and the defeatist nature of much current Protestant theology.

He spoke of the ecumenical movement within Protestanism as its greatest present source of hope.

Earlier the group heard a description of a five-point program of action for Christian churches by Dr. Walter W. Van Kirk, executive director of the department of international justice and goodwill of the National Council of Christ in America.

Van Kirk's program suggested recovery by the churches of a faith as dynamic and convincing as that of the early disciples, recovery of a ministry comparable to that by which the Mediterranean world was transformed by early Christians, development of a more adequate ministry of relief and rehabilitation, modification of techniques and methods, and continuing effort to achieve Christian unity and inter-church cooperation.

6 Men Enter Armed Forces

Six men were inducted into the armed forces from Pickaway County last month. They were as follows:

John Homer Stout of Oakwood Place, Marines; Richard Allen Mitchem of 474 East Ohio street, Marines; Robert Eugene Morgan of Columbus, Army; Ned Marshall Garrett of Circleville Route 4, Army; Earl Kenneth Schumacher of Lancaster Route 3, Army; Ernest George O'Dell of 386 East Walnut street, Army.

Welfare Board Fund Is Hiked

Pickaway County commissioners have appropriated $320 to be used by the county child welfare board for additional salaries for employes of the Children's Home.

The commissioners also ordered bids to be advertised for construction of a new road to extend Pickaway street south of Circleville corporation line. The bids will be opened at 1:30 p. m., Sept. 24.

ASSIGNED to the 91st Strategic Reconnaissance Wing, the four-engine jets are the first of 40 such ships to be stationed at Lockbourne by the end of this month.

Columbus city officials and aviation leaders were on hand for the welcoming ceremony.

By the end of the month all 40 jet planes converted to carry photographic equipment will be "bedded down" at Lockbourne. A unit of B-29s to be used as "tankers" to refuel the jets in midair also will be based at Lockbourne.

Turnpike Take To Be Studied

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6 — Financial advisers to the Ohio Turnpike Commission will meet today and Friday in New York to decide whether the proposed $300 million super tollway across Northern Ohio will pay off.

Representatives of 170 investment firms, named as financial advisers to the commission, will determine whether the "take" from the turnpike tolls will be sufficient to pay off the bonds to be issued to finance the highway.

A financial report is expected to be ready by Sept. 15 for the commission.

Oberlin Eyes New Industries

LORAIN, Sept. 6 — For the first time in its 118-year history, nearby Oberlin is inviting industrial firms to build their plants in the college community.

A 15-member new industries committee is sending out a 12-page brochure designed to attract new plants to the community.

Except for a small firm producing fishing bait equipment, the last industries dated back to pre-Civil War days and included a saddle and harness shop, a flour and a tin and sheep iron plant.

Local Western Union Manager Explains Newest Rate Setup

"For the first time in 100 years Western Union is departing from its historic 10-word telegram minimum and giving telegraph users the benefit of 50 percent greater word allowances, in most cases at lower cost, it has been announced by local Western Union Manager H. W. Galley.

"Western Union's new rate schedules, as approved by the Federal Communications Commission for interstate service and effective Sept. 1, will entitle the public to send 15 words instead of 10 in telegrams, and 50 words instead of 25 in night letters for basic charge. The new rate for a 15-word fast message in most cases will be lower than for the same number of words under the old schedules.

"Savings to users will vary according to the distance a message is sent. Under the new plan, the cost of a 15-word telegram, compared with the previous charge for a message of the same length, will be lower in five of nine zones, the same in two, and only five cents more in the remaining zones.

"For example, a 15-word full rate message from New York to San Francisco will cost $1.60, a reduction of 35 cents under the previous charge of $1.95 for 15 words. A message of the same length in the lowest rate zone will cost 50 cents under the new rates, only a nickel more than the present rate of 45 cents.

"A 50-word night letter, compared with the previous charge for the same message, costs less in all cases.

"Additional words under the new rate schedules generally will cost less, resulting in lower charges on long messages. Rates for additional words with fast messages in the new schedules range from 2 cents to 6 1-2 cents, as against the present range of 2 cents to 10 cents a word. Some reductions in additional word rates will apply to the day letter and night letter.

"The added minimum word allowance in telegrams meets a demand of the telegraphing public expressed in an opinion survey made for Western Union," said Galley. "The survey disclosed that 23 percent of telegram users had difficulty condensing their messages into 10 words. Eighty-four percent said they preferred lengths up to 15 words.

"The need for an expansion in the telegram minimum from 10 to 15 words is indicated by the fact that studies show the present text of a full-rate telegram averages approximately 14 words. The greater word allowances now possible will mean clearer messages and easier writing."

Allergy Expert Gives His Views On Nature Of Hay Fever Disorder

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—Hay fever, both seasonal and perennial, affects approximately three percent of the population of the United States.

According to Dr. Harry Swartz, noted allergy expert, the name "hay fever", which is generally applied to the late variety coming on in August and lasting until October, and "rose fever", applied to the Summer variety coming on in May and lasting to mid-July, are two of the greatest misnomers in medicine.

The conditions are not caused by hay or roses and are never or rarely ever accompanied by fever. The names arose because symptoms were associated with the most obvious occurrence at their inception, namely the harvesting of hay and the blooming of roses.

In the greater part of the U. S. where the hay fever seasons are relatively short, each lasting no longer than six to eight weeks, it has been estimated that the total number of working days lost by the hay fever population is about five and one-half million.

Hay fever is not caught, or passed on to persons in one's immediate surroundings, Dr. Swartz claims. The propensity for hay fever is present and onset of symptoms may be delayed for years.

It is true that hay fever may make its onset a season or so earlier if the victim happens to be in an area more heavily concentrated with atmospheric pollen than in his own home area.

An often serious mistaken conception is that a child is too young to be investigated and treated. Waiting for a ripe age may mean welcoming other more serious allergic conditions such as bronchial asthma, the doctor says. He adds: "No known case of hay fever has been reported among American Indians."

City Credited With Growth

There were 741 more people in Circleville in 1950 than in 1940.

Based on official 1950 census figures from the Bureau of Census, Washington D. C., Circleville has a population of 8,723. In 1940 the population was 7,982.

The proclamation was mailed to Mayor Thurman I. Miller by Secretary of State Ted Brown. These certificates were made up as rapidly as possible following the receipt of the population count for municipalities from the federal authorities.

County population figures were received earlier this year and township figures were received only a few days ago, Brown said.

Runaway Steer Said Found 4 Miles From City

A 600-pound steer which broke away from its owner at the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative stockyards in Circleville Wednesday was reportedly found Thursday morning.

The steer, owned by Leonard Williams of Ashville Route 2, broke away from its handler Wednesday while being readied for sale in the auctions.

Storming west from the stockyards, the steer crossed Court street with a trail of youngsters behind him and headed for the Scioto River bottomland, where he escaped his pursuers.

The animal, a red, white-face steer, was reportedly found Thursday morning on a farm near the Hitler-Ludwig cemetery, about four miles east of the spot where he was last spotted Wednesday night.

The bid was opened Wednesday afternoon by the county commissioners. Van Camp's bid on the project was for $23,175.89. This was $114 lower than County Engineer Henry T. McCrady's estimate of $23,289.89.

McCrady said date for completing the project is Nov. 15.

Burglars Enter Local Tavern

Thieves broke into Son's restaurant on South Court street Wednesday night and stole approximately $80 in change from two vending machines.

William Topolosky, who operates the restaurant, said the burglars made off with $54.75 from a cigaret vending machine and about $30 from a juke box.

Authorities said the thieves gained entrance into the cafe either by forcing a side, alleyway window or by having remained hidden inside until after the restaurant was closed for the night.

Gromyko May Pull New Quickie

ges, who arrived in San Francisco last night, reported that the general consensus in Washington is that Gromyko and his team would "raise a lot of hell" and then end by signing the pact.

Bridges came to the Golden Gate City to act as one of the signers of an American-Japanese mutual defense treaty slated to be formalized the day after conclusion of the peace agreement.

The peace conference site was buzzing with growing rumors that if the Soviet bloc decides to withhold its signatures from the peace pact, Gromyko might fly straight to Peiping and summon a conference of Asiatic nations, including Red China.

Such a parley, if held, would be keyed to the purpose of erecting a Communist - controlled front of Asiatic countries pledged to oust Anglo-American influence from the Orient under the slogan of "Asia for the Asiatics."

* * *

HOWEVER, Gromyko's Kremlin-directed intentions remained cloaked in deepening mystery which generated lively speculation on whether he still has some further surprise up his sleeve.

Experienced statesmen — including Secretary of State Acheson who won the permanent presidency of the conference by reason of his astute handling of Gromyko's futile filibuster attempts—indicated their belief that the Soviet deputy foreign minister had not yet fired his big guns.

Acheson, surprised at his election, said he was "pleased that things have gone so quickly and well so far."

His use of the phrase "so far" was taken to mean the Gromyko-led Communist bloc is expected to produce some new maneuvers designed either to block or shock the conference.

John Foster Dulles, principal architect of the treaty draft, expressed surprise over the fact that the conference had moved some 12 hours ahead of schedule. He said he had not expected debate to begin until today, whereas the statements of the delegations, including the Russian, were launched yesterday.

* * *

STILL TO BE heard from were the delegations from Communist Czechoslovakia and Poland. They were not listed to speak today but are expected to deliver their pronouncements possibly tomorrow.

There was little doubt that the Czech and Polish delegates would fully back up Gromyko's scathing onslaught upon the American-British treaty draft—a document which the Soviet diplomat denounced as a pact "not for peace, but for war."

The Russian delegation chief laid before the conference yesterday a blueprint of the kind of peace agreement his government would prefer.

He listed 13 points which he called "amendments" but which however will not be submitted to voting because of procedural rules barring any alterations of the Anglo-American draft. Gromyko called for:

1. Japanese recognition of Red China and the latter's claims to Formosa and other islands as well as recognition of Russian sovereignty over South Sakhalin and the Kuriles which the Soviets now occupy.

2. Restoration to Japanese ownership of the Ryukyus, Bonins, Marcus and other islands over which America now holds trusteeships.

3. Withdrawal of occupation forces from Japan within 90 days after a peace treaty takes effect and the banning of foreign bases on Japanese territory such as are contemplated in the American-Japanese mutual security pact.

4. Payment of war reparations by Japan.

5. Inclusion of Red China and Outer Mongolia among the treaty signatories.

6. Japan's guarantee to respect the "fundamental freedoms" of her own people.

7. A Japanese pledge against revival of "fascist and military organizations."

8. A Japanese guarantee to enter no "military alliances" against any of the World War II allies.

9. Limitation of Japan's armed forces to 150,000 troops, 25,000 naval personnel, 20,000 airmen, 200 tanks, 75,000 tons of naval vessels and 350 planes excluding bombers.

10. Restriction of military training to home defense needs.

11. A ban on development in Japan of atomic, bacteriological, chemical and rocket weapons.

12. Unlimited development of Japan's "peaceful" industries and commerce.

13. Demilitarization of the strategic Tsushima Strait between Japan and Korea.

Protestantism Losing Influence Now, Is Belief

DELAWARE, Sept. 6 — Dr. Paul Hutchinson, editor of the leading Protestant undenominational weekly, the Christian Century, said today that Protestant influence in the world is weakening.

Addressing more than 500 ministers and laymen of Ohio at a meeting at Wesleyan university, Hutchinson blamed the trend on loss of contact with labor in most of Europe, the chaotic conditions on mission field in Asia and the defeatist nature of much current Protestant theology.

He spoke of the ecumenical movement within Protestanism as its greatest present source of hope.

Earlier the group heard a description of a five-point program of action for Christian churches by Dr. Walter W. Van Kirk, executive director of the department of international justice and goodwill of the National Council of Christ in America.

Van Kirk's program suggested recovery by the churches of a faith as dynamic and convincing as that of the early disciples, recovery of a ministry comparable to that by which the Mediterranean world was transformed by early Christians, development of a more adequate ministry of relief and rehabilitation, modification of techniques and methods, and continuing effort to achieve Christian unity and inter-church cooperation.

6 Men Enter Armed Forces

Six men were inducted into the armed forces from Pickaway County last month. They were as follows:

John Homer Stout of Oakwood Place, Marines; Richard Allen Mitchem of 474 East Ohio street, Marines; Robert Eugene Morgan of Columbus, Army; Ned Marshall Garrett of Circleville Route 4, Army; Earl Kenneth Schumacher of Lancaster Route 3, Army; Ernest George O'Dell of 386 East Walnut street, Army.

Welfare Board Fund Is Hiked

Pickaway County commissioners have appropriated $320 to be used by the county child welfare board for additional salaries for employes of the Children's Home.

The commissioners also ordered bids to be advertised for construction of a new road to extend Pickaway street south of Circleville corporation line. The bids will be opened at 1:30 p. m., Sept. 24.

Jet Blamed For 'Blast'

but it seems improbable one of these big jobs was doing any power diving.

ASSIGNED to the 91st Strategic Reconnaissance Wing, the four-engine jets are the first of 40 such ships to be stationed at Lockbourne by the end of this month.

Columbus city officials and aviation leaders were on hand for the welcoming ceremony.

By the end of the month all 40 jet planes converted to carry photographic equipment will be "bedded down" at Lockbourne. A unit of B-29s to be used as "tankers" to refuel the jets in midair also will be based at Lockbourne.

Turnpike Take To Be Studied

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6 — Financial advisers to the Ohio Turnpike Commission will meet today and Friday in New York to decide whether the proposed $300 million super tollway across Northern Ohio will pay off.

Representatives of 170 investment firms, named as financial advisers to the commission, will determine whether the "take" from the turnpike tolls will be sufficient to pay off the bonds to be issued to finance the highway.

A financial report is expected to be ready by Sept. 15 for the commission.

Oberlin Eyes New Industries

LORAIN, Sept. 6 — For the first time in its 118-year history, nearby Oberlin is inviting industrial firms to build their plants in the college community.

A 15-member new industries committee is sending out a 12-page brochure designed to attract new plants to the community.

Except for a small firm producing fishing bait equipment, the last industries dated back to pre-Civil War days and included a saddle and harness shop, a flour and a tin and sheep iron plant.

Local Western Union Manager Explains Newest Rate Setup

"For the first time in 100 years Western Union is departing from its historic 10-word telegram minimum and giving telegraph users the benefit of 50 percent greater word allowances, in most cases at lower cost, it has been announced by local Western Union Manager H. W. Galley.

"Western Union's new rate schedules, as approved by the Federal Communications Commission for interstate service and effective Sept. 1, will entitle the public to send 15 words instead of 10 in telegrams, and 50 words instead of 25 in night letters for basic charge. The new rate for a 15-word fast message in most cases will be lower than for the same number of words under the old schedules.

"Savings to users will vary according to the distance a message is sent. Under the new plan, the cost of a 15-word telegram, compared with the previous charge for a message of the same length, will be lower in five of nine zones, the same in two, and only five cents more in the remaining zones.

"For example, a 15-word full rate message from New York to San Francisco will cost $1.60, a reduction of 35 cents under the previous charge of $1.95 for 15 words. A message of the same length in the lowest rate zone will cost 50 cents under the new rates, only a nickel more than the present rate of 45 cents.

"A 50-word night letter, compared with the previous charge for the same message, costs less in all cases.

"Additional words under the new rate schedules generally will cost less, resulting in lower charges on long messages. Rates for additional words with fast messages in the new schedules range from 2 cents to 6 1-2 cents, as against the present range of 2 cents to 10 cents a word. Some reductions in additional word rates will apply to the day letter and night letter.

"The added minimum word allowance in telegrams meets a demand of the telegraphing public expressed in an opinion survey made for Western Union," said Galley. "The survey disclosed that 23 percent of telegram users had difficulty condensing their messages into 10 words. Eighty-four percent said they preferred lengths up to 15 words.

"The need for an expansion in the telegram minimum from 10 to 15 words is indicated by the fact that studies show the present text of a full-rate telegram averages approximately 14 words. The greater word allowances now possible will mean clearer messages and easier writing."

Allergy Expert Gives His Views On Nature Of Hay Fever Disorder

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—Hay fever, both seasonal and perennial, affects approximately three percent of the population of the United States.

According to Dr. Harry Swartz, noted allergy expert, the name "hay fever", which is generally applied to the late variety coming on in August and lasting until October, and "rose fever", applied to the Summer variety coming on in May and lasting to mid-July, are two of the greatest misnomers in medicine.

The conditions are not caused by hay or roses and are never or rarely ever accompanied by fever. The names arose because symptoms were associated with the most obvious occurrence at their inception, namely the harvesting of hay and the blooming of roses.

In the greater part of the U. S. where the hay fever seasons are relatively short, each lasting no longer than six to eight weeks, it has been estimated that the total number of working days lost by the hay fever population is about five and one-half million.

Hay fever is not caught, or passed on to persons in one's immediate surroundings, Dr. Swartz claims. The propensity for hay fever is present and onset of symptoms may be delayed for years.

It is true that hay fever may make its onset a season or so earlier if the victim happens to be in an area more heavily concentrated with atmospheric pollen than in his own home area.

An often serious mistaken conception is that a child is too young to be investigated and treated. Waiting for a ripe age may mean welcoming other more serious allergic conditions such as bronchial asthma, the doctor says. He adds: "No known case of hay fever has been reported among American Indians."

City Credited With Growth

There were 741 more people in Circleville in 1950 than in 1940.

Based on official 1950 census figures from the Bureau of Census, Washington D. C., Circleville has a population of 8,723. In 1940 the population was 7,982.

The proclamation was mailed to Mayor Thurman I. Miller by Secretary of State Ted Brown. These certificates were made up as rapidly as possible following the receipt of the population count for municipalities from the federal authorities.

County population figures were received earlier this year and township figures were received only a few days ago, Brown said.

Runaway Steer Said Found 4 Miles From City

A 600-pound steer which broke away from its owner at the Pickaway Livestock Cooperative stockyards in Circleville Wednesday was reportedly found Thursday morning.

The steer, owned by Leonard Williams of Ashville Route 2, broke away from its handler Wednesday while being readied for sale in the auctions.

Storming west from the stockyards, the steer crossed Court street with a trail of youngsters behind him and headed for the Scioto River bottomland, where he escaped his pursuers.

The animal, a red, white-face steer, was reportedly found Thursday morning on a farm near the Hitler-Ludwig cemetery, about four miles east of the spot where he was last spotted Wednesday night.

NATION'S TOLL GROWING

One Millionth Traffic Fatality Due This Year

CHICAGO, Sept. 6—Who will be the one millionth person to die in a traffic accident? Where will it happen? Exactly when?

The National Safety Council said today the answers to those questions never will be known.

If the present rate of traffic deaths continues, some time next November or December a child will dart into the street, a homeward-bound salesman will try to pass a truck on a hill, a young couple will hurtle of a curve on the way to a dance, an old woman will become confused crossing a street—and the millionth traffic victim will pass unheralded into a dusty police file.

But even though the actual identity of the millionth victim will remain a mystery, the council has made plans which will enable it to name the fateful day as a climax to an intensive safe driving campaign in which all safety organizations are cooperating.

• • •

On Nov. 15, the council will begin issuing weekly bulletins on the grand total of traffic deaths since the advent of the automobile. These bulletins also will forecast the probable date of the millionth fatality.

"Our only purpose in trying to identify such a grim date in history is to dramatize the horror of such a huge traffic toll," said Ned H. Dearborn, council president.

"Perhaps one million dead—almost twice the number of Americans who have died in combat in all our wars—will crack the apathy of a nation which can see 35,000 persons killed by autos in a year without much concern.

"It has taken a little more than 50 years to kill the first million. If traffic deaths continue at the present rate, it will take only 30 years to kill the second million. We can only hope that this terrible day of seven-figure reckoning will become a safety milestone—not just another gravestone—on the road to make responsible use of the automobile."

The council, which makes regular, cumulative tabulations of traffic deaths, said that even its elaborate nationwide reporting system is not fast enough to give up-to-the-minute totals.

• • •

FURTHERMORE, vital statistics were not recorded completely by all the states in earlier years after the turn of the century, so that motor vehicle death totals for some years are estimates based on the best available information.

Thus any attempt to identify the actual millionth victim, Dearborn said, would place the spotlight of notoriety arbitrarily on the tragedy of one family when "the spotlight should be turned on the tragedy of a nation which permits motor madness to go on."

Indian Hero Of Korea Battle Gets Full Honors In Arlington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — An American Indian soldier, who died in Korean combat and was refused burial near his ancestral home because he was not a "Caucasian," was laid to rest yesterday in the company of the nation's heroic dead.

Sergeant First Class John R. Rice, a Winnebago Indian who fell in the battle of the Pusan perimeter, was buried with full military honors in Arlington National Cemetery.

By order of President Truman, the body of the 38-year-old infantryman was brought to Arlington after a private cemetery in Sioux City, Iowa, denied him burial because of his race.

Sergeant Rice, a veteran of World War II, found his last resting place a scant 100 yards from the grave of General of the Armies John J. Pershing and even closer to the grave of Gen. Walton Walker, a Korean war casualty.

A full regiment of infantry took part in the cemetery ceremonies and the muted music of the U.S. Army Band, the silvery notes of "Taps" and the traditional volley of rifle fire lent martial pomp to the rites.

The sergeant's aged mother, Mrs. Samie Davis, was taken to the graveside in a wheel chair. His widow stood proud and dry-eyed as the casket was lowered into the hallowed ground.

Sen. Gillette, (D) Iowa, and Sen. Butler, (R) Neb., were among more than 400 mourners who participated in the services.

The sergeant's body was borne to the grave on an artillery caisson drawn by the seven matched gray horses of military custom.

An honor guard of non-commissioned officers from the crack Third Infantry Regiment performed a final service for their heroic brother-in-arms.

A belfry originally was a mobile wooden tower employed in sieges for attacking and scaling the walls of a town or castle.

6 Cities Cited For Pollution

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6 — Officials of six Ohio cities are to receive letters from the attorney general today warning them to take steps to stop stream pollution in their communities.

Attorney General C. William O'Neill sent the letters yesterday to Dover, New Philadelphia, Coshocton, Lorain, Cambridge, Athens and Logan.

O'Neill said the six cities named were polluting streams with raw sewage. He described the action as a "dangerous threat to the health of Ohio citizens."

NATION'S TOLL GROWING

One Millionth Traffic Fatality Due This Year

CHICAGO, Sept. 6—Who will be the one millionth person to die in a traffic accident? Where will it happen? Exactly when?

The National Safety Council said today the answers to those questions never will be known.

If the present rate of traffic deaths continues, some time next November or December a child will dart into the street, a homeward-bound salesman will try to pass a truck on a hill, a young couple will hurtle of a curve on the way to a dance, an old woman will become confused crossing a street—and the millionth traffic victim will pass unheralded into a dusty police file.

But even though the actual identity of the millionth victim will remain a mystery, the council has made plans which will enable it to name the fateful day as a climax to an intensive safe driving campaign in which all safety organizations are cooperating.

• • •

On Nov. 15, the council will begin issuing weekly bulletins on the grand total of traffic deaths since the advent of the automobile. These bulletins also will forecast the probable date of the millionth fatality.

"Our only purpose in trying to identify such a grim date in history is to dramatize the horror of such a huge traffic toll," said Ned H. Dearborn, council president.

"Perhaps one million dead—almost twice the number of Americans who have died in combat in all our wars—will crack the apathy of a nation which can see 35,000 persons killed by autos in a year without much concern.

"It has taken a little more than 50 years to kill the first million. If traffic deaths continue at the present rate, it will take only 30 years to kill the second million. We can only hope that this terrible day of seven-figure reckoning will become a safety milestone—not just another gravestone—on the road to make responsible use of the automobile."

The council, which makes regular, cumulative tabulations of traffic deaths, said that even its elaborate nationwide reporting system is not fast enough to give up-to-the-minute totals.

• • •

FURTHERMORE, vital statistics were not recorded completely by all the states in earlier years after the turn of the century, so that motor vehicle death totals for some years are estimates based on the best available information.

Thus any attempt to identify the actual millionth victim, Dearborn said, would place the spotlight of notoriety arbitrarily on the tragedy of one family when "the spotlight should be turned on the tragedy of a nation which permits motor madness to go on."

Indian Hero Of Korea Battle Gets Full Honors In Arlington

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — An American Indian soldier, who died in Korean combat and was refused burial near his ancestral home because he was not a "Caucasian," was laid to rest yesterday in the company of the nation's heroic dead.

Sergeant First Class John R. Rice, a Winnebago Indian who fell in the battle of the Pusan perimeter, was buried with full military honors in Arlington National Cemetery.

By order of President Truman, the body of the 38-year-old infantryman was brought to Arlington after a private cemetery in Sioux City, Iowa, denied him burial because of his race.

Sergeant Rice, a veteran of World War II, found his last resting place a scant 100 yards from the grave of General of the Armies John J. Pershing and even closer to the grave of Gen. Walton Walker, a Korean war casualty.

A full regiment of infantry took part in the cemetery ceremonies and the muted music of the U.S. Army Band, the silvery notes of "Taps" and the traditional volley of rifle fire lent martial pomp to the rites.

The sergeant's aged mother, Mrs. Samie Davis, was taken to the graveside in a wheel chair. His widow stood proud and dry-eyed as the casket was lowered into the hallowed ground.

Sen. Gillette, (D) Iowa, and Sen. Butler, (R) Neb., were among more than 400 mourners who participated in the services.

The sergeant's body was borne to the grave on an artillery caisson drawn by the seven matched gray horses of military custom.

An honor guard of non-commissioned officers from the crack Third Infantry Regiment performed a final service for their heroic brother-in-arms.

A belfry originally was a mobile wooden tower employed in sieges for attacking and scaling the walls of a town or castle.

6 Cities Cited For Pollution

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6 — Officials of six Ohio cities are to receive letters from the attorney general today warning them to take steps to stop stream pollution in their communities.

Attorney General C. William O'Neill sent the letters yesterday to Dover, New Philadelphia, Coshocton, Lorain, Cambridge, Athens and Logan.

O'Neill said the six cities named were polluting streams with raw sewage. He described the action as a "dangerous threat to the health of Ohio citizens."

8,000 COUPLES REUNITED

Here's A Judge Who Tries To Avoid Divorce Cases

CHICAGO, Sept. 6—The dean of divorce court judges, who has signed off more marriages than any other jurist in the world, maintains "marriage can be enduring and happy" — and can prove it.

Superior Judge Joseph Sabath of Chicago who has terminated 75,000 marriages by divorce decrees in his 41 years on the bench also holds another record. He has reunited 8,000 quarreling couples who have asked him for divorce.

The 81-year-old jurist contends:

"I seldom hear a divorce without requesting the husband and wife to let me try to get them together again, especially if there are children.

"After all I have a convincing argument. My wife, Regina, and I have been married 63 years and every day, since that day we eloped when she was 17 and I was 18, has been happier than the last."

Judge Sabath contends many divorce actions start over "small foolishness." He explained:

* * *

"DINNER IS not ready, or the wife has bought something too expensive, or the husband stayed out too long and offered no explanation.

"I had one case where the man worked hard physically all day and came home tired and dirty, only to have his wife insist that he eat the dinner she prepared immediately.

"Well, the husband left home. It was only when I talked to the couple that the wife learned that all her husband wanted was a chance to bathe, shave and rest a little before his evening meal."

Judge Sabath said he has found his conferences with the quarreling couple usually "are the first time they both have heard the other's story face to face."

Michael F. Zlotnik, the judge's special assistant for 10 years, reported:

"Judge Sabath has been averaging one or two reconciliations a day since I've been with him. He never begins a day with a resigned attitude about divorce. Maybe that's why he has been so successful. I remember one day when he reconciled five out of the six couples who came before him."

* * *

JUDGE SABATH achieves his reconciliations in his chambers, which—with a wit undimmed by his years—he calls his "kiss and makeup room." This room has a homelike atmosphere with comfortable chairs, potted plants and a fireplace equipped with an electric device that lights up a screen, sending bright imitation flames from a hearth log. He said:

"After I have told them they both are wrong, and that is usually the case, I tell them it is time to 'kiss and makeup.' Then I turn out the lights, plug in the fireplace and leave."

Samuel A. Rinella, an attorney who has appeared before the veteran jurist for 23 years, said:

"I can count on one hand the clients I've represented who have left that room without deciding to try again."

Judge Sabath urges couples to have at least three children, by adoption if necessary; to buy a home; the wife to keep from working unless extra money is urgently needed, and to plan all recreation together.

Two Women File Petitions Asking Divorce

Two petitions seeking divorce have been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court.

A petition filed by Juanita A. Curry asks for a divorce from Jess Williard Curry listing gross neglect and extreme cruelty as the grounds. The couple was married Sept. 24, 1949. They have one child.

The wife asks for custody of the child, support money and permanent alimony.

Second petition was filed by Alice Byrd through her next friend, Naomi Dade, against Leon M. Byrd. It accuses the husband of gross neglect.

The couple was married Oct. 14, 1946, in Greenup, Ky. They have no children. In addition to the divorce, the wife seeks restoration of her former name, Alice Bearden.

Special Milk Hearing Set

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—Agriculture Department officials agreed today to hold special hearings to consider producer association requests for emergency milk price action in the Kentucky-West Virginia and Ohio marketing areas.

The hearings are scheduled to begin in Gallipolis, Ohio, Monday, and will be followed by meetings in Cincinnati and Louisville.

The producers have asked for the emergency price action for the Fall and Winter months to prevent further cuts in the market supplies of milk which are already low because of drought.

Colds cost Americans $2 billion annually.

Hey, Bud, Your Feet's Too Big

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 6—A Milwaukee hosiery executive reported today that the average American male's feet apparently are adding an inch in size in a decade.

Gustave Frankel, president of the hosiery firm, reported the average sock size now is 11 1-2, as compared to 10 1-2 10 years ago. Frankel added:

"At this rate in 50 years a size 16 1-2 sock—measuring 16 1-2 inches from heel to toe—may be the rule rather than an exception. For the sake of masculine dignity and appearance, we hope that the present rate of increase will be drastically reduced."

The banjo was first played by American Negroes about the close of the Eighteenth Century. It is an American musical instrument.

Senate Meets For 8 Seconds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — The U. S. Senate met and recessed Tuesday in eight seconds flat—a new record for short sessions.

Vice-President Barkley banged his gavel calling the body to order, briefly announced that by previous agreement no business would be transacted, and declared the session over until noon Wednesday. There were no senators on the floor at the time, and it was about five minutes of noon—the usual convening time. The previous speed record was ten seconds last March 26.

British Labor Gets Warning

BLACKPOOL, Sept. 6 — Hugh Gaitsell, Socialist chancellor of the exchequer, told the Trades Union Congress today that labor must restrain its wage demands rather than "soak the rich" if Britain is to remain solvent.

The chancellor of the exchequer put the blame for the situation on worldwide inflation which, he insisted, must be checked by "international cooperation."

8,000 COUPLES REUNITED

Here's A Judge Who Tries To Avoid Divorce Cases

CHICAGO, Sept. 6—The dean of divorce court judges, who has signed off more marriages than any other jurist in the world, maintains "marriage can be enduring and happy" — and can prove it.

Superior Judge Joseph Sabath of Chicago who has terminated 75,000 marriages by divorce decrees in his 41 years on the bench also holds another record. He has reunited 8,000 quarreling couples who have asked him for divorce.

The 81-year-old jurist contends:

"I seldom hear a divorce without requesting the husband and wife to let me try to get them together again, especially if there are children.

"After all I have a convincing argument. My wife, Regina, and I have been married 63 years and every day, since that day we eloped when she was 17 and I was 18, has been happier than the last."

Judge Sabath contends many divorce actions start over "small foolishness." He explained:

* * *

"DINNER IS not ready, or the wife has bought something too expensive, or the husband stayed out too long and offered no explanation.

"I had one case where the man worked hard physically all day and came home tired and dirty, only to have his wife insist that he eat the dinner she prepared immediately.

"Well, the husband left home. It was only when I talked to the couple that the wife learned that all her husband wanted was a chance to bathe, shave and rest a little before his evening meal."

Judge Sabath said he has found his conferences with the quarreling couple usually "are the first time they both have heard the other's story face to face."

Michael F. Zlotnik, the judge's special assistant for 10 years, reported:

"Judge Sabath has been averaging one or two reconciliations a day since I've been with him. He never begins a day with a resigned attitude about divorce. Maybe that's why he has been so successful. I remember one day when he reconciled five out of the six couples who came before him."

* * *

JUDGE SABATH achieves his reconciliations in his chambers, which—with a wit undimmed by his years—he calls his "kiss and makeup room." This room has a homelike atmosphere with comfortable chairs, potted plants and a fireplace equipped with an electric device that lights up a screen, sending bright imitation flames from a hearth log. He said:

"After I have told them they both are wrong, and that is usually the case, I tell them it is time to 'kiss and makeup.' Then I turn out the lights, plug in the fireplace and leave."

Samuel A. Rinella, an attorney who has appeared before the veteran jurist for 23 years, said:

"I can count on one hand the clients I've represented who have left that room without deciding to try again."

Judge Sabath urges couples to have at least three children, by adoption if necessary; to buy a home; the wife to keep from working unless extra money is urgently needed, and to plan all recreation together.

Two Women File Petitions Asking Divorce

Two petitions seeking divorce have been filed in Pickaway County common pleas court.

A petition filed by Juanita A. Curry asks for a divorce from Jess Williard Curry listing gross neglect and extreme cruelty as the grounds. The couple was married Sept. 24, 1949. They have one child.

The wife asks for custody of the child, support money and permanent alimony.

Second petition was filed by Alice Byrd through her next friend, Naomi Dade, against Leon M. Byrd. It accuses the husband of gross neglect.

The couple was married Oct. 14, 1946, in Greenup, Ky. They have no children. In addition to the divorce, the wife seeks restoration of her former name, Alice Bearden.

Special Milk Hearing Set

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6—Agriculture Department officials agreed today to hold special hearings to consider producer association requests for emergency milk price action in the Kentucky-West Virginia and Ohio marketing areas.

The hearings are scheduled to begin in Gallipolis, Ohio, Monday, and will be followed by meetings in Cincinnati and Louisville.

The producers have asked for the emergency price action for the Fall and Winter months to prevent further cuts in the market supplies of milk which are already low because of drought.

Colds cost Americans $2 billion annually.

Hey, Bud, Your Feet's Too Big

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 6—A Milwaukee hosiery executive reported today that the average American male's feet apparently are adding an inch in size in a decade.

Gustave Frankel, president of the hosiery firm, reported the average sock size now is 11 1-2, as compared to 10 1-2 10 years ago. Frankel added:

"At this rate in 50 years a size 16 1-2 sock—measuring 16 1-2 inches from heel to toe—may be the rule rather than an exception. For the sake of masculine dignity and appearance, we hope that the present rate of increase will be drastically reduced."

The banjo was first played by American Negroes about the close of the Eighteenth Century. It is an American musical instrument.

Senate Meets For 8 Seconds

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — The U. S. Senate met and recessed Tuesday in eight seconds flat—a new record for short sessions.

Vice-President Barkley banged his gavel calling the body to order, briefly announced that by previous agreement no business would be transacted, and declared the session over until noon Wednesday. There were no senators on the floor at the time, and it was about five minutes of noon—the usual convening time. The previous speed record was ten seconds last March 26.

British Labor Gets Warning

BLACKPOOL, Sept. 6 — Hugh Gaitsell, Socialist chancellor of the exchequer, told the Trades Union Congress today that labor must restrain its wage demands rather than "soak the rich" if Britain is to remain solvent.

The chancellor of the exchequer put the blame for the situation on worldwide inflation which, he insisted, must be checked by "international cooperation."

CRYSTAL BALL IS READ

Scientist Says Peace Will Come--Gradually

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard university, prophesied yesterday that the next fifty years will bring a gradual, peaceful solution of world problems, and not the feared "atomic holocaust" of war.

Conant addressed the diamond jubilee meeting of the American Chemical Society as a "skeptical chemist" looking into a crystal ball for a glimpse of the future.

In gazing into his "plastic crystal ball," the noted scientist questioned some of the prophesies of atomic physicists whom he described as "modern alchemists". Conant said:

"I see in this instrument of prophecy neither an atomic holocaust nor the golden abundance of an atomic age.

"On the contrary, I see worried humanity endeavoring by one political device after another to find a way out of the atomic age.

* * * *

"AND BY THE end of the century this appears to have been accomplished, but neither through the triumph of totalitarianism nor by the advent of world government."

The next fifty years, Conant predicted, will prove that human nature is still tough and unyielding, and that neither the forces of good nor evil will prevail to the extent prophesied by some writers.

"The year 1984, for example," Conant said, "does not glare with menace in my crystal ball. Men and women will continue to be unregimented in many portions of the world.

"Paris, Berlin, London, New York, Moscow still stand physically undamaged by any enemy action since World War II. They still represent focal points for diverse national outlooks, though the alignment has shifted first one way and then another since 1951.

"The Marx-Lenin dogmas are still honored in vast areas, but so too are the watchwords of the 18th Century French and American Revolutions: Liberty, equality, fraternity."

Conant puts 1950 as a turning point "when collective security became a reality." By the middle 1950s he foresees 'balanced forces again at the disposal of the Atlantic treaty nations."

People in time will become somewhat accustomed to the threat of the atomic bomb, he said, and by the 1960s "constructive steps away from war are first being taken," when the people decide "that the game is not worth the candle."

Conant predicted slow but steady changes in the production of energy and food. By the end of the century solar energy, he said, will be the dominating factor in the production of industrial power.

Halloween originated in 837, when Pope Gregory IV instituted the day on Nov. 1, in place of the earlier festival of Peace of the Martyrs.

Texas Boys Plot Cat-Extortion

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 6—A 76-year-old, kindly Houston widow was free today from a cat-extortion plot which has cost her $200 to $300 since last Halloween.

Last Halloween the widow, Mrs. Anella Edmonds, saw a group of boys stoning three cats, and she gave them one dollar and a lecture to stop.

The boys, seeing a possible profit, started bringing the woman cats which they promised to leave unharmed and kittens they said were hurt and needed a vet's care—if she would make it worth while.

Mrs. Edmonds had been paying until her maid told the story to Houston police yesterday.

The next fifty years, Conant predicted, will prove that human nature is still tough and unyielding, and that neither the forces of good nor evil will prevail to the extent prophesied by some writers.

"The year 1984, for example," Conant said, "does not glare with menace in my crystal ball. Men and women will continue to be unregimented in many portions of the world.

"Paris, Berlin, London, New York, Moscow still stand physically undamaged by any enemy action since World War II. They still represent focal points for diverse national outlooks, though the alignment has shifted first one way and then another since 1951.

"The Marx-Lenin dogmas are still honored in vast areas, but so too are the watchwords of the 18th Century French and American Revolutions: Liberty, equality, fraternity."

Conant puts 1950 as a turning point "when collective security became a reality." By the middle 1950s he foresees 'balanced forces again at the disposal of the Atlantic treaty nations."

People in time will become somewhat accustomed to the threat of the atomic bomb, he said, and by the 1960s "constructive steps away from war are first being taken," when the people decide "that the game is not worth the candle."

Conant predicted slow but steady changes in the production of energy and food. By the end of the century solar energy, he said, will be the dominating factor in the production of industrial power.

Halloween originated in 837, when Pope Gregory IV instituted the day on Nov. 1, in place of the earlier festival of Peace of the Martyrs.

Texas Boys Plot Cat-Extortion

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 6—A 76-year-old, kindly Houston widow was free today from a cat-extortion plot which has cost her $200 to $300 since last Halloween.

Last Halloween the widow, Mrs. Anella Edmonds, saw a group of boys stoning three cats, and she gave them one dollar and a lecture to stop.

The boys, seeing a possible profit, started bringing the woman cats which they promised to leave unharmed and kittens they said were hurt and needed a vet's care—if she would make it worth while.

Mrs. Edmonds had been paying until her maid told the story to Houston police yesterday.

REDS CANNOT BE TRUSTED

ON NUMEROUS occasions in recent years the Communists have demonstrated one of the underlying principles of their philosophy. Questions of right or wrong do not concern them. For that reason they deal only on a basis of self-interest, and any treaties they enter into are based entirely on what benefits will come to them, and nothing else.

Failure of ceasefire negotiations at Kaesong can be charged directly to the insistence of the Reds that the U. S. and its token Allies surrender to them. The future welfare of the Korean people receives no consideration from the Reds.

Under the Communist philosophy a treaty is regarded merely as a convenient device to further the Red interests. Agreements with other nations are never based upon integrity and honesty of purpose.

Russia has always dealt dishonestly with the United States. That was why four Presidents — Wilson, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover—refused diplomatic recognition to the Moscow Reds.

Russia has repudiated its debt, refused to return lend-lease ships, and in every way possible hindered efforts to bring peace to the world after World War II. So far as Russia is concerned there is only one nation in all the world.

U. S. delegates at Kaesong, after 45 days of fruitless negotiations, probably now agree with General MacArthur that there is no solution of the problem except a military victory so complete that no diplomatic negotiations are necessary.

Communists in Russia or elsewhere have never lived up to a single agreement, nor would they do so if one came out of Kaesong. Washington may have fallen into another Communist trap.

Some still say General Eisenhower could win the presidential nomination on either ticket. That is if neither Taft nor Truman decides to run, of course.

Russian poets and song writers have been warned by Stalin not to put any love in their lyrics, for fear the people wouldn't understand what they were writing about.

An Englishwoman who drank 40 cups of coffee a day lived to be 114, a fact which will not be overlooked by the help in government offices.

Minimum telegraph rates now are for 15 words, which will give husbands a chance to amplify that word "love" so often used to make up the original 10.

Green is said to be a most restful color, made more so if it is the kind often referred to as "long."

These Days

British policy has always been based on keeping Europe sufficiently weak so that England would never be dominated. It has been a policy of shifting alliances so that no one European power would ever become so strong that it could dominate the entire Continent.

In Asia, Great Britain in 1902 signed the Anglo-Japanese alliance which gave Japan almost four decades of greatness, but by 1922, Japan was already too big for Great Britain and the alliance was broken off on the pretext that the United States objected to it.

"For four hundred years the foreign policy of England has been to oppose the strongest, most aggressive, most dominating power on the Continent, and particularly to prevent the Low Countries falling into the hands of such a power. Therefore, we should not be afraid of being accused of being pro-French or anti-German. If the circumstances were reversed, we could equally be pro-German and anti-French. It is a law of public policy which we are following, and not a mere expedient dictated by accidental circumstances, or likes and dislikes, or any other sentiment."

As matters now stand, a dominant power does exist in Europe, Soviet Russia, and the British can do nothing about it. Having in two wars made the historic error of eliminating Germany and weakening France, Great Britain has left Europe open to Russian conquest. Similarly in Asia, the elimination of Japan from the ranks of the first-rate powers opened the way for Russia and a Russian-controlled China to dominate that continent.

From the strictly British standpoint, World War I and World War II were fatal historic errors. Both destroyed the balances of power and led to the Slavic-Mongolian overlordship.

Such countries as India and Iran and the Arab states have to view the fall of British power objectively and with due consideration for their own interests. For Iran, association with Great Britain, particularly since 1907 (Anglo-Russian entente), used to mean protection against Russian imperialism. The absorption of the Khanates of Khiva and Bukhara into the Czarist realm in 1873 brought Persia (now called Iran) closer to the Russian boundary.

However, today Great Britain is unable to protect any part of Iran from Russian imperialism. Such a task would fall upon the United States by means of a United Nations resolution. The relations between the United States and Iran, since 1945, have been disappointing to Iran, which expected more than the State Department was willing to do. Furthermore, Iran desired that relationships between Iran and the United States should be direct and not be, in any manner, associated with British policy or British interests.

The situation which has currently developed in Iran is only on the surface related to oil. More profoundly, it is a product of a popular antagonism to Great Britain. Of course, Soviet Russia has cultivated the opposition, utilizing the underground Tudeh party for this purpose—but the antagonism had to be there to be cultivated.

The Indian situation is more complex and is aggravated by the Socialism of Nehru, as well as by his mercantile nature. Nehru has had relations with Communism at least since 1929, but apart from that he fears the absorption of India either by Soviet Russia or Soviet China.

Precautions for Blood Donors

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WAR and the threat of war will undoubtedly result in more and more calls upon citizens to give blood. Such generosity saved uncounted thousands of lives during World War II and the more recent struggle in Korea. Thus, this is one way in which the average man can make a worth-while contribution to the nation's defense.

Nevertheless, we should all realize that there is a limit to what one individual can do in this way. In other words, there is such a thing as giving blood too often.

Risk of Anemia

Donors who repeat too frequently run the risk of developing severe anemia, together with such symptoms as weakness, shortness of breath, dizziness, and fainting. The amount of work accomplished by those having this form of anemia may be greatly diminished. The individual may appear tired or sleepy.

Many of these patients neglect to tell the doctor that they have been giving repeated donations of blood, thus making it difficult for the physician to make a diagnosis as to the cause of the anemia.

Iron Given

In those blood donor anemia cases which have been studied, it was found that the giving of iron in the form of ferrous sulfate rapidly increased the red blood count. Eleven persons with this type of anemia were studied and it was found that all improved rapidly with this form of treatment. However, it was also found that the red blood count increased to a greater degree when they consumed a high protein diet along with the ferrous sulfate.

Protein Substance

A synthetic protein substance was given by mouth in addition to the high protein diet. The protein diet was of no help if the ferrous sulfate was not given with it.

It is important that donors who give blood from time to time take the necessary precautions by having repeated blood counts made during the period and after every blood donation. If there is any sign of anemia, prompt treatment should be instituted.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

I. H. H.: What causes swelling of the ankles and what is the best treatment for it?

Answer: The most common causes of swollen ankles are heart and kidney disease.

In kidney disease there may be a general swelling of the body which is present in the face and the arms, as well as in the legs. In heart disease, the swelling is most marked in the lower part of the body, that is, in the legs, ankles, and abdomen. There is usually no swelling in the face or arms.

Another common cause is prolonged standing. This is the type that occurs most often in middle-aged individuals. Swelling of the ankles may also occur in people who have had an insufficient diet, especially of protein foods.

The treatment for the condition depends mainly upon the cause. Rest and the application of heat to the swollen parts are usually helpful.

CHAPTER FORTY-FIVE

TONTO faced the door, Colt ready. It might be Bart Overby returning to finish the job he had started. Tonto dogged back the hammer, lined the gun on the doorway. The steps sounded like thunder in the hall and at the door. Vic Ellers stood framed there, gun drawn. Just behind him stood Tex Jonas.

"What the devil!" Vic exclaimed as he peered through the smoke at Tonto. He heard Bradley whimpering and his head jerked around. He saw a pair of boots protruding from behind the desk.

The thunder had left Tonto's ears and he could hear someone breathing in a loud, gurgling rasp. He slowly lowered the six as Tex rushed toward him.

"Overby?" Tonto said through set teeth.

"Never saw him. You hurt bad, Tonto?"

"No. A patching will do. We got to get Overby. He was here. Got away."

Vic Ellers spoke from behind the desk, his voice muffled. "Ken Frick is tombstone bait. Gilpin will be."

Tonto came to his feet. He held his hand tightly against his side as he crossed the room to a high wooden file. He made a gesture with his gun.

"Come out of there, Bradley. We got some talking to do."

Bradley remained huddled in the corner. He finally looked around, lips trembling, face white. His eyes centered on Tonto's gun, widened and he made a gesture as though to ward off a blow.

"No! Don't! It wasn't my idea. It was all Ad's fault. He planned everything!"

"Get up," Tonto ordered, sickened. Bradley pulled himself to his feet, eyes still centered on the gun. Vic Ellers knelt beside Ad Gilpin. The saloonkeeper lay beside the wall, froth bubbling to his lips. He watched Bradley, eyes glazed.

"Did Ken Frick kill Laramie Jones?" Tonto demanded harshly, "and set fire to my graze?"

"Yes. Yes, Ken did that! I didn't have a thing to do with it! I warned them all to take it easy! They wouldn't listen—"

"Tonto!" Vic said sharply. Tonto turned. Ad Gilpin's thin lips had pulled into a sardonic smile and his eyes had lost some of their glaze. A gray pallor about his face foretold the end, but Gilpin gathered strength from some unknown source.

"Chips in," he said weakly. His eyes glittered. "Owen Bradley always was yellow. He'll save his own hide. That ain't—the way I had the cards stacked." He took a deep breath. "Ken?" he said and turned his head.

"Dead," Vic answered shortly. Gilpin's head moved restlessly and froth appeared on his lips.

"I won't be alone," he said and his voice was startlingly clear. "Ken'll be there. Maybe Owen later. He planned the fire after Ken heard about the beef in the canyon. Owen had the idea Ken could make things so tough for Riley that he wouldn't be able to stay on the Slash S. But—Ken muffed that deal—like he did at the canyon. No need to have killed . . . Laramie. But . . . Ken did only what Owen Bradley told him. . . . We wanted the Slash S to go to Bart Overby. . . . Then Bradley had a plan to take care of Bart so the Slash S would be ours."

Vic looked up at Tonto. Tex Jonas stood near the doorway where he could hear all Ad Gilpin had to say and keep a sharp eye on Owen Bradley. Tex's eyes were big. Gilpin's head moved restlessly again. He looked beyond Tonto at Bradley, who clung weakly to the file. Gilpin smiled.

"I had a surprise planned for Owen. I'd have the Slash S all to myself. Now. . . ." He stopped and gasped for breath and looked up at Tonto. He lifted his hand weakly. "You . . . ask Bradley who . . . killed Rick Staples."

His head rolled to one side and his body went slack. Vic Ellers slowly came to his feet. "He's dead." He turned as boots pounded on the stairs and voices called loud questions up the stairwell. He went into the hall and ordered the crowd to disperse.

"It's all over. Git on home. Sid Harper, come up here. Tex, watch this door. We don't want no one disturbing us for awhile."

Sid came in, stopped short when he saw the two bodies. Vic grimly motioned him inside. "I want you to listen to what Owen Bradley's going to tell us, Sid. I want a witness that no one can accuse of being prejudiced."

Vic closed the door. He kicked a chair forward and fiercely motioned Tonto to sit down. He made Tonto remove his shirt and then started to examine the wound. Bradley remained silent until Vic looked up scowling.

"Start talking, Bradley. What do you know about Rick Staples' killing?"

"Nothing! Nothing at all!"

"Ad Gilpin told us different. You're mighty deep in the mud right now. I think you'd better talk."

"You're going up for trial, Bradley," he said tightly. "You figured this whole deal to grab the Slash S. You were prodding at Bart to kill me and get me out of the way, and you were ready to get the court to assign the Slash S to him. Gilpin has told that you planned to get rid of Bart. You ordered Ken Frick to cause trouble and someone told him to set fire to that canyon tonight. Gilpin's dead and you're the one who'll pay. Frick killed Laramie Jones and you're implicated in that. Now, what about Rick Staples? Do you want that suspicion against you at the trial?"

Bradley looked trapped. He swallowed, a hard contraction of his throat muscles.

"I didn't kill Rick. Bart Overby did that job. He met Rick out on the road and shot him. He rode right up to Rick, friendly as could be. Then he pulled a derringer and shot him."

"Why?" Tonto demanded.

"Rick was fooling around with Ruby Sevier and Bart knew it. He warned Rick but it did no good. Bart threatened to kill him several times. Then he caught Rick leaving that shack Ruby's got outside Avrillo."

Tonto blinked. So Ruby had lied. Both Bart Overby and Rick Staples had known about the shack. They had evidently both been there. Something else nagged at Tonto but he couldn't quite get it.

President Faces Rebuffs Over Economic Controls | Meat Slaughtering Quota Ban May Be Rescinded

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—President Truman faces another legislative rebuff in his new appeal for stronger economic controls. Congressional sources say he will be lucky to get any of the changes he is demanding.

The President's best hope is his request that the ban on meat slaughtering quotas be removed. There is an outside chance that Congress may repeal this provision but only after loud bellows from the cattle states interests.

President Truman

As for the presidential demand that the Capehart and Herlong amendments be repealed, there is virtually no chance Congress will listen to him. These provisions permit sellers to pass on cost increases to consumers and assure them of their pre-Korean margins of profit.

The introduction by three Republican senators of a measure to carry out Mr. Truman's recommendations was a patent political move. The sponsors themselves are said to feel that the proposals do not stand a chance.

Separate legislation to repeal the ban on slaughtering quotas has been introduced in both Senate and House but may be tied up in committee for weeks before it reaches the floor—if ever.

Apparently from long habit of command, the secretary invariably takes over direction of set-ups for cameramen at Pentagon ceremonies. "Bradley," Marshall will say in a clipped voice, "Come on over; stand here."

The chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Omar M. Bradley, promptly responds. He invariably addresses Marshall as "General" or "Sir," but Marshall addresses him as "Bradley."

The Defense secretary gets things done but he has one very human failing—a bad memory for names. Once while ticking off for the benefit of a group of visiting firemen the names of the Joint Chiefs—the highest echelon of the military command—he came to Lt. Gen. However, when he explained the reason for the change on the floor, up jumped Senator Paul H. Douglas (D), Illinois, with an identical problem involving the Agriculture department bill.

The word comes from Barkley himself that his wife, the former Jane Hadley, is actually "thrilled" that he carries off these assignments in such fine style.

However, the Veep notes a little ruefully that there has been a distinct decline in demand for his services in this line since he was wed.

This, he insists, is definitely not due any objection on the part of Mrs. Barkley. On the contrary, he says his lovely brunet spouse is all for such gestures of good will.

Try, Stop Me

When Danny Kaye made a great hit in James Thurber's "Walter Mitty," producer Sam Goldwyn thought he'd like to have Thurber as a permanent addition to his writing stable. The catch lay in the fact that Thurber was working very happily for Magazine Editor Harold Ross and had no desire whatever to dally further with picture making.

"I'll pay you five hundred dollars a week," wrote Goldwyn. "Sorry," answered Thurber after some delay, "but Mr. Ross has met the increase." Goldwyn thereupon raised the ante to a thousand, then fifteen hundred, and finally twenty-five hundred a week, but each time got nothing for his pains but the courteous response, "Mr. Ross has met the increase."

There followed a long interim of silence. Then one day Mr. Goldwyn wrote again. This time, for some unknown reason, his offer went down to fifteen hundred. Thurber wrote back, "I'm sorry, but Mr. Ross has met the decrease."

REDS CANNOT BE TRUSTED

ON NUMEROUS occasions in recent years the Communists have demonstrated one of the underlying principles of their philosophy. Questions of right or wrong do not concern them. For that reason they deal only on a basis of self-interest, and any treaties they enter into are based entirely on what benefits will come to them, and nothing else.

Failure of ceasefire negotiations at Kaesong can be charged directly to the insistence of the Reds that the U. S. and its token Allies surrender to them. The future welfare of the Korean people receives no consideration from the Reds.

Under the Communist philosophy a treaty is regarded merely as a convenient device to further the Red interests. Agreements with other nations are never based upon integrity and honesty of purpose.

Russia has always dealt dishonestly with the United States. That was why four Presidents — Wilson, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover—refused diplomatic recognition to the Moscow Reds.

Russia has repudiated its debt, refused to return lend-lease ships, and in every way possible hindered efforts to bring peace to the world after World War II. So far as Russia is concerned there is only one nation in all the world.

U. S. delegates at Kaesong, after 45 days of fruitless negotiations, probably now agree with General MacArthur that there is no solution of the problem except a military victory so complete that no diplomatic negotiations are necessary.

Communists in Russia or elsewhere have never lived up to a single agreement, nor would they do so if one came out of Kaesong. Washington may have fallen into another Communist trap.

Some still say General Eisenhower could win the presidential nomination on either ticket. That is if neither Taft nor Truman decides to run, of course.

Russian poets and song writers have been warned by Stalin not to put any love in their lyrics, for fear the people wouldn't understand what they were writing about.

An Englishwoman who drank 40 cups of coffee a day lived to be 114, a fact which will not be overlooked by the help in government offices.

Minimum telegraph rates now are for 15 words, which will give husbands a chance to amplify that word "love" so often used to make up the original 10.

Green is said to be a most restful color, made more so if it is the kind often referred to as "long."

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

British policy has always been based on keeping Europe sufficiently weak so that England would never be dominated. It has been a policy of shifting alliances so that no one European power would ever become so strong that it could dominate the entire Continent.

In Asia, Great Britain in 1902 signed the Anglo-Japanese alliance which gave Japan almost four decades of greatness, but by 1922, Japan was already too big for Great Britain and the alliance was broken off on the pretext that the United States objected to it.

"For four hundred years the foreign policy of England has been to oppose the strongest, most aggressive, most dominating power on the Continent, and particularly to prevent the Low Countries falling into the hands of such a power. Therefore, we should not be afraid of being accused of being pro-French or anti-German. If the circumstances were reversed, we could equally be pro-German and anti-French. It is a law of public policy which we are following, and not a mere expedient dictated by accidental circumstances, or likes and dislikes, or any other sentiment."

As matters now stand, a dominant power does exist in Europe, Soviet Russia, and the British can do nothing about it. Having in two wars made the historic error of eliminating Germany and weakening France, Great Britain has left Europe open to Russian conquest. Similarly in Asia, the elimination of Japan from the ranks of the first-rate powers opened the way for Russia and a Russian-controlled China to dominate that continent.

From the strictly British standpoint, World War I and World War II were fatal historic errors. Both destroyed the balances of power and led to the Slavic-Mongolian overlordship.

Such countries as India and Iran and the Arab states have to view the fall of British power objectively and with due consideration for their own interests. For Iran, association with Great Britain, particularly since 1907 (Anglo-Russian entente), used to mean protection against Russian imperialism. The absorption of the Khanates of Khiva and Bukhara into the Czarist realm in 1873 brought Persia (now called Iran) closer to the Russian boundary.

However, today Great Britain is unable to protect any part of Iran from Russian imperialism. Such a task would fall upon the United States by means of a United Nations resolution. The relations between the United States and Iran, since 1945, have been disappointing to Iran, which expected more than the State Department was willing to do. Furthermore, Iran desired that relationships between Iran and the United States should be direct and not be, in any manner, associated with British policy or British interests.

The situation which has currently developed in Iran is only on the surface related to oil. More profoundly, it is a product of a popular antagonism to Great Britain. Of course, Soviet Russia has cultivated the opposition, utilizing the underground Tudeh party for this purpose—but the antagonism had to be there to be cultivated.

The Indian situation is more complex and is aggravated by the Socialism of Nehru, as well as by his mercantile nature. Nehru has had relations with Communism at least since 1929, but apart from that he fears the absorption of India either by Soviet Russia or Soviet China.

Precautions for Blood Donors

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WAR and the threat of war will undoubtedly result in more and more calls upon citizens to give blood. Such generosity saved uncounted thousands of lives during World War II and the more recent struggle in Korea. Thus, this is one way in which the average man can make a worth-while contribution to the nation's defense.

Nevertheless, we should all realize that there is a limit to what one individual can do in this way. In other words, there is such a thing as giving blood too often.

Risk of Anemia

Donors who repeat too frequently run the risk of developing severe anemia, together with such symptoms as weakness, shortness of breath, dizziness, and fainting. The amount of work accomplished by those having this form of anemia may be greatly diminished. The individual may appear tired or sleepy.

Many of these patients neglect to tell the doctor that they have been giving repeated donations of blood, thus making it difficult for the physician to make a diagnosis as to the cause of the anemia.

Iron Given

In those blood donor anemia cases which have been studied, it was found that the giving of iron in the form of ferrous sulfate rapidly increased the red blood count. Eleven persons with this type of anemia were studied and it was found that all improved rapidly with this form of treatment. However, it was also found that the red blood count increased to a greater degree when they consumed a high protein diet along with the ferrous sulfate.

Protein Substance

A synthetic protein substance was given by mouth in addition to the high protein diet. The protein diet was of no help if the ferrous sulfate was not given with it.

It is important that donors who give blood from time to time take the necessary precautions by having repeated blood counts made during the period and after every blood donation. If there is any sign of anemia, prompt treatment should be instituted.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

I. H. H.: What causes swelling of the ankles and what is the best treatment for it?

Answer: The most common causes of swollen ankles are heart and kidney disease.

In kidney disease there may be a general swelling of the body which is present in the face and the arms, as well as in the legs. In heart disease, the swelling is most marked in the lower part of the body, that is, in the legs, ankles, and abdomen. There is usually no swelling in the face or arms.

Another common cause is prolonged standing. This is the type that occurs most often in middle-aged individuals. Swelling of the ankles may also occur in people who have had an insufficient diet, especially of protein foods.

The treatment for the condition depends mainly upon the cause. Rest and the application of heat to the swollen parts are usually helpful.

TONTO RILEY

CHAPTER FORTY-FIVE

TONTO faced the door, Colt ready. It might be Bart Overby returning to finish the job he had started. Tonto dogged back the hammer, lined the gun on the doorway. The steps sounded like thunder in the hall and at the door. Vic Ellers stood framed there, gun drawn. Just behind him stood Tex Jonas.

"What the devil!" Vic exclaimed as he peered through the smoke at Tonto. He heard Bradley whimpering and his head jerked around. He saw a pair of boots protruding from behind the desk.

The thunder had left Tonto's ears and he could hear someone breathing in a loud, gurgling rasp. He slowly lowered the six as Tex rushed toward him.

"Overby?" Tonto said through set teeth.

"Never saw him. You hurt bad, Tonto?"

"No. A patching will do. We got to get Overby. He was here. Got away."

Tonto came to his feet. He held his hand tightly against his side as he crossed the room to a high wooden file. He made a gesture with his gun.

"Come out of there, Bradley. We got some talking to do."

Bradley remained huddled in the corner. He finally looked around, lips trembling, face white. His eyes centered on Tonto's gun, widened and he made a gesture as though to ward off a blow.

"No! Don't! It wasn't my idea. It was all Ad's fault. He planned everything!"

"Get up," Tonto ordered, sickened. Bradley pulled himself to his feet, eyes still centered on the gun. Vic Ellers knelt beside Ad Gilpin. The saloonkeeper lay beside the wall, froth bubbling to his lips. He watched Bradley, eyes glazed.

"Did Ken Frick kill Laramie Jones?" Tonto demanded harshly, "and set fire to my graze?"

"Yes. Yes, Ken did that! I didn't have a thing to do with it! I warned them all to take it easy! They wouldn't listen—"

"Tonto!" Vic said sharply. Tonto turned. Ad Gilpin's thin lips had pulled into a sardonic smile and his eyes had lost some of their glaze. A gray pallor about his face foretold the end, but Gilpin gathered strength from some unknown source.

"Chips in," he said weakly. His eyes glittered. "Owen Bradley always was yellow. He'll save his own hide. That ain't—the way I had the cards stacked." He took a deep breath. "Ken?" he said and turned his head.

"Dead," Vic answered shortly. Gilpin's head moved restlessly and froth appeared on his lips.

"I won't be alone," he said and his voice was startlingly clear. "Ken'll be there. Maybe Owen later. He planned the fire after Ken heard about the beef in the canyon. Owen had the idea Ken could make things so tough for Riley that he wouldn't be able to stay on the Slash S. But—Ken muffed that deal—like he did at the canyon. No need to have killed . . . Laramie. But . . . Ken did only what Owen Bradley told him. . . . We wanted the Slash S to go to Bart Overby. . . . Then Bradley had a plan to take care of Bart so the Slash S would be ours."

Vic looked up at Tonto. Tex Jonas stood near the doorway where he could hear all Ad Gilpin had to say and keep a sharp eye on Owen Bradley. Tex's eyes were big. Gilpin's head moved restlessly again. He looked beyond Tonto at Bradley, who clung weakly to the file. Gilpin smiled.

"I had a surprise planned for Owen. I'd have the Slash S all to myself. Now. . . ." He stopped and gasped for breath and looked up at Tonto. He lifted his hand weakly. "You . . . ask Bradley who . . . killed Rick Staples."

His head rolled to one side and his body went slack. Vic Ellers slowly came to his feet. "He's dead." He turned as boots pounded on the stairs and voices called loud questions up the stairwell. He went into the hall and ordered the crowd to disperse.

Sid came in, stopped short when he saw the two bodies. Vic grimly motioned him inside. "I want you to listen to what Owen Bradley's going to tell us, Sid. I want a witness that no one can accuse of being prejudiced."

Vic closed the door. He kicked a chair forward and fiercely motioned Tonto to sit down. He made Tonto remove his shirt and then started to examine the wound. Bradley remained silent until Vic looked up scowling.

"Start talking, Bradley. What do you know about Rick Staples' killing?"

"Nothing! Nothing at all!"

"You're going up for trial, Bradley," he said tightly. "You figured this whole deal to grab the Slash S. You were prodding at Bart to kill me and get me out of the way, and you were ready to get the court to assign the Slash S to him. Gilpin has told that you planned to get rid of Bart. You ordered Ken Frick to cause trouble and someone told him to set fire to that canyon tonight. Gilpin's dead and you're the one who'll pay. Frick killed Laramie Jones and you're implicated in that. Now, what about Rick Staples? Do you want that suspicion against you at the trial?"

Bradley looked trapped. He swallowed, a hard contraction of his throat muscles.

"I didn't kill Rick. Bart Overby did that job. He met Rick out on the road and shot him. He rode right up to Rick, friendly as could be. Then he pulled a derringer and shot him."

"Why?" Tonto demanded.

"Rick was fooling around with Ruby Sevier and Bart knew it. He warned Rick but it did no good. Bart threatened to kill him several times. Then he caught Rick leaving that shack Ruby's got outside Avrillo."

Tonto blinked. So Ruby had lied. Both Bart Overby and Rick Staples had known about the shack. They had evidently both been there. Something else nagged at Tonto but he couldn't quite get it.

"I'll pay you five hundred dollars a week," wrote Goldwyn. "Sorry," answered Thurber after some delay, "but Mr. Ross has met the increase." Goldwyn thereupon raised the ante to a thousand, then fifteen hundred, and finally twenty-five hundred a week, but each time got nothing for his pains but the courteous response, "Mr. Ross has met the increase."

There followed a long interim of silence. Then one day Mr. Goldwyn wrote again. This time, for some unknown reason, his offer went down to fifteen hundred. Thurber wrote back, "I'm sorry, but Mr. Ross has met the decrease."

First Methodist Woman's Society Stages Gala South American Festival

Edith Simester Is Guest Speaker

Social rooms of First Methodist church were changed into a South American festival scene Wednesday evening when Woman's Society of Christian Service held its first general session of the year.

Guests and members, on arriving were greeted by Mrs. Roy Marshall, chairman of the reception committee, and given flowers to pin in their hair, along with a Mexican sombrero chapel card, by young girls of the church dressed in colorful costumes of Latin America.

Around the room were displays of articles from South American countries including rugs, serapi, pictures, dolls and jewelry—all from South of the border countries. Included in the display was a large assortment of mahogany trays and dishes made by natives of Haiti, a boys costume from Mexico and many straw hats and baskets.

Many arrangements of flowers, the work of Mrs. Lewis Sharpe, Mrs. Orion King and Mrs. M. E. Noggle, added to the carnival atmosphere.

Centering a worship center was an arrangement of Tithoria, flower of the Inca Indians, grown by M. E. Noggle. Adding to the colorful display was a collection of flags from the South American republics.

At a business session, conducted by Mrs. Boyd Stout, chairman of WSCS, Mrs. Tom Bennett, program chairman, distributed year books to be given to members at circle meetings next Wednesday and Mrs. Paul Johnson, promotion secretary, related progress of the society and stressed the importance of continuing the study of Latin America.

Mrs. Clarence Thorne, spiritual life chairman, conducted a devotional program. Piano accompanist was Miss Reba Lee.

Telling of her work with Methodist institutions in that country she said, "There is a large field there and much work to be done, but there is no sense of defeat, for Brazilians feel that everything is in the future. With their immense land area—as large as United States plus another Texas—they have a population of only 45 million. They know that there is much room for further development."

Miss Simester remarked concerning the lack of agricultural progress saying that, "Even with its comparatively small population and a climate where food may be grown the year around, there are still thousands who die each year of malnutrition, poverty is extreme and the rate of illiteracy is very high."

She also said, "There is very little race distinction. The people are a mixture of Portugese, Spanish, Negro, native Indian, Japanese, Syrian and many other races. No one questions this intermingling. They say, 'We are all Brazilians.' "

Miss Simester believes that rivalry among church sects stimulates the church, impelling it to live up to its highest ideals.

Concluding her remarks, she said, "We Methodists feel that we have a message for our Latin American neighbors. We are showing them the way to a living religion."

Following the address, refreshments—lime ice with cherry sauce, a favorite dessert of South American hostesses—was served by Mrs. Leonard Lytle, assisted by Mrs. Emmett Barnhart, Mrs. C. Ray Barnhart, Mrs. W. T. Ulm, Mrs. S. G. Rader, Mrs. Barton Deming, Mrs. Turney Clifton, Mrs. Warren Harmon, Mrs. Herbert Southward, Mrs. Robert Miller and Mrs. Fred Wiggins.

Junior hostesses, directed by Mrs. John Chilcote, were Connie Wertman, Sally Clifton, Elaine Woodward, Nancy Barnhill, Carol Ann Johnson, Barbara Culp and Beverly Colwell. Also members of reception committee were Mrs. George Adkins and Mrs. John Evans.

Decorations and exhibition of articles were arranged by Mrs. Robert Weaver, Miss Marvene Howard, Mrs. William Cook, Miss Jeanette Reicheld e r f e r, Miss Lorraine Stambaugh and Miss Carrie Johnson.

It was announced that Chillicothe district luncheon meeting of Woman's Society will be held in the local church, Oct. 26.

SURVEY RESULTS DETAILED

Record Buying Spree Seen Coming For U.S. Business

CHICAGO, Sept. 6 — Armed with a reserve of 19 billion, consumers will stage the greatest surge of Fall buying ever experienced in this country, it was predicted today.

Bernard A. Mitchell, president of a local appliance manufacturing company, based the statement on his just-completed nationwide tour during which he visited dealers and distributors in 14 states.

Mitchell, whose company manufactures air conditioners and fluorescent lighting, said he discovered first hand, that uniformly throughout the country, consumers have been on a buyer's strike from March through August of 1951.

This slowdown of business on a retail and wholesale level, Mitchell was told by his dealers and distributors, was due to a general feeling that the all-time high prices would have to give soon.

* * *

CONSUMERS, though better equipped than ever to buy had decided to wait this one out, at least for a time.

Previous to March, 1951, consumer spending in the first months of the year was 20 percent above the similar period of pre-Korea 1950.

Savings had dropped 30 percent below the previous year's rate. Holdings of U. S. savings bonds decreased $300 million and cash and bank deposits slipped $2.2 billion, as people dipped into their reserves to buy goods.

All of a sudden, in March, the situation changed, Mitchell observed. Buyers suddenly went on the defensive, became cautious, careful, stingy. Although the national income hit an all-time high, this merely added to the case reserve which kept building up.

For the first time in the post-war period, there was an increase in the proportion of consumer spenders owning liquid assets. And for the first time since the end of the war, the proportion of dissavers (those who were spending more than they made) was declining.

* * *

"THUS, THROUGH these defensive tactics, our buyer brigade has put away reserves of $19 billion in savings, setting up one of the most powerful buying weapons in the history of our country," he said.

The consumer has held back his purchasing, Mitchell was informed, because (1) he feels current prices are too high and (2) he is waiting for, and expecting, a price break.

"It is interesting to note that while sustained high prices proved a road block to buyers, still the consumer has moved quickly whenever any signs of weakness appeared.

"These signs, taking the form of sales which appeared periodically throughout the Summer, found immediate and unprecedented response from the probing consumer who may have decided the time for his offensive was here."

By Fall, Mitchell believes that prices will have dropped as far as they can go and that consumers will no longer be able to put off buying what they need. These two factors will convince the buyer brigade with the large surplus burning holes in its armor plate, that Fall is the time to launch a full scale offensive, he contends.

"The Charge of the Buyer Brigade," concluded Mitchell, "will completely overwhelm retail stores, I predict the biggest Fall and Christmas season in the history of American business."

City's August Finance Tally Given To Council

Circleville city council Tuesday approved a city financial report for August submitted by City Auditor Lillian Young. The report was as follows:

General fund receipts, $3,416.24, expenditures, $8,470.65, balance, $11,054.55; water works operating fund receipts $6,081.67, expenditures, $2,969.90, balance, $26,304.53; sewage disposal fund receipts, $541.88, expenditures $1,617.90, balance, $5,009.34; auto street repair fund receipts $274.20, expenditures, $1,339.33, balance, $3,367.79; gasoline tax fund receipts, $3,087.00 expenditures, $2,342.24, balance $3917.07.

Water works trust fund receipts, $85.00, expenditures, $30.00, balance, $1,260.00; police pension fund receipts, $79.82, expenditures, $534.12, balance, $8075.69; fireman pension fund receipts $62.18, expenditures, $125.00, balance, $9,269.04; water works improvement extension fund expenditures, $1,859.66, balance, $29,490.65.

A total of $1,209 was collected from parking meters during August, while admission tax collections totalled $233.40.

Council also heard a financial report from the mayor's office read, listing collection of fines at $154; licenses, $34; traffic and bonds, $150.

The report also showed that $556.72 was refunded to the city from Pickaway County Law Library Association, the money representing unexpended funds from last year.

Under state law the city is required to turn over to the law library a portion of collections from fines and forfeited bonds. The law requires the law library association to turn back unexpended funds at the end of each year.

Meat Industry Urged Consider Consumer Needs

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—Development of tender, juicy meat at low cost to the consumer, rather than prize livestock with "sales appeal on the hoof," was urged today at the American Chemical Society's diamond jubilee meeting.

Dr. F. E. Deatherage, chairman of the department of agricultural biochemistry at Ohio State university, said that the American meat industry has spent vast sums for research, resulting in many technical advances, but the industry, he added, has paid relatively little attention to the type of meat ultimately supplied the consumer—as long as the consumer did not complain of spoilage.

Considered one of the nation's foremost authorities on the quality of meat, Deatherage contended that even in universities and in state and national experiment stations, livestock production research has been carried on without much regard for the consumer quality of the resulting meat.

Americans ate more meat in 1908 than in any other year—163 pounds per person.

U.S. Casualties Total 81,766

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — The Defense Department's weekly summary of American casualties in Korea today showed a total of 81,766, an increase of 344 over last week.

The increase, including 90 dead, was in line with the low level of casualties reported since the start of the Korean armistice negotiations, but was higher than the low of 256 for the week of Aug. 17.

The new total includes 12,188 killed in action; 57,272 wounded, of whom 1,380 have died; and 12,306 missing, of whom 139 are known to have died. The total of all deaths is 13,707.

By services, the Army has suffered 66,972 casualties, the Marines 13,112, the Navy 944 and the Airforce 738.

SURVEY RESULTS DETAILED

Record Buying Spree Seen Coming For U.S. Business

CHICAGO, Sept. 6 — Armed with a reserve of 19 billion, consumers will stage the greatest surge of Fall buying ever experienced in this country, it was predicted today.

Bernard A. Mitchell, president of a local appliance manufacturing company, based the statement on his just-completed nationwide tour during which he visited dealers and distributors in 14 states.

Mitchell, whose company manufactures air conditioners and fluorescent lighting, said he discovered first hand, that uniformly throughout the country, consumers have been on a buyer's strike from March through August of 1951.

This slowdown of business on a retail and wholesale level, Mitchell was told by his dealers and distributors, was due to a general feeling that the all-time high prices would have to give soon.

* * *

CONSUMERS, though better equipped than ever to buy had decided to wait this one out, at least for a time.

Previous to March, 1951, consumer spending in the first months of the year was 20 percent above the similar period of pre-Korea 1950.

Mitchell pointed out that the months following March showed consumer spending to have dropped to a rate of $203 billion a year, while actual income left after taxes is at the rate of $222 billion a year.

"THUS, THROUGH these defensive tactics, our buyer brigade has put away reserves of $19 billion in savings, setting up one of the most powerful buying weapons in the history of our country," he said.

The consumer has held back his purchasing, Mitchell was informed, because (1) he feels current prices are too high and (2) he is waiting for, and expecting, a price break.

KEFAUVER REQUEST DOOMED?

Louisiana Crime Probers Indicted By Association

NEW YORK, Sept. 6 — The Senate Crime Investigating Committee has run into a spot of bad timing with its last official act, the filing of its final report.

The committee's major recommendation, that private citizens form vigilante committees throughout the nation to fight crime on the local level, hit the front pages simultaneously with stories of the arrest and indictment of just such a committee of citizens in Lake Charles, La.

Eight citizens of Lake Charles are under indictment because they tried to do on a local basis what the Kefauver committee did on a national scale. Now, for their pains, they have been arrested for "defaming" three convicted gamblers and a group of 16 officials, including the district attorney.

The fact that five of the eight men under indictment are newspapermen is pertinent only in that the powers that be in this district obviously felt they could kill two birds with one stone: Intimidate both press and public by the arrests.

* * *

ONE THING is certain—if this "association," to use the prettiest word available, of gamblers and public officials is allowed to get away with this indictment of its critics, then the nation needn't expect many persons to step forward and volunteer for duty in the citizens' groups to fight crime as suggested by the Kefauver committee.

For the localites in which citizens' committees fighting crime and entrenched racketeers are most needed are those like Calcasieu Parish (County), in which Lake Charles is located, where both gamblers and officials are suspect by an aroused and honest citizenry.

But if both factions, the gamblers and the officials under investigation by the citizenry, can invoke a grand jury and indict their righteous enemies, then honest Joe Blow, who wants a decent, law-abiding community in which to make his home and raise his family, isn't going to risk arrest and indictment for trying to do his duty as a good citizen.

Encouraged by the work of the Kefauver committee, the citizens of Lake Charles some months ago formed the Peoples Action Group in an effort to rid their parish of the gamblers who have invested it for years.

The PAG accused the sheriff, one Henry Reid who inherited the job from his father, of malfasance in office. But it was not Reid who was indicted by the grand jury, but five newspapermen and three members of the PAG.

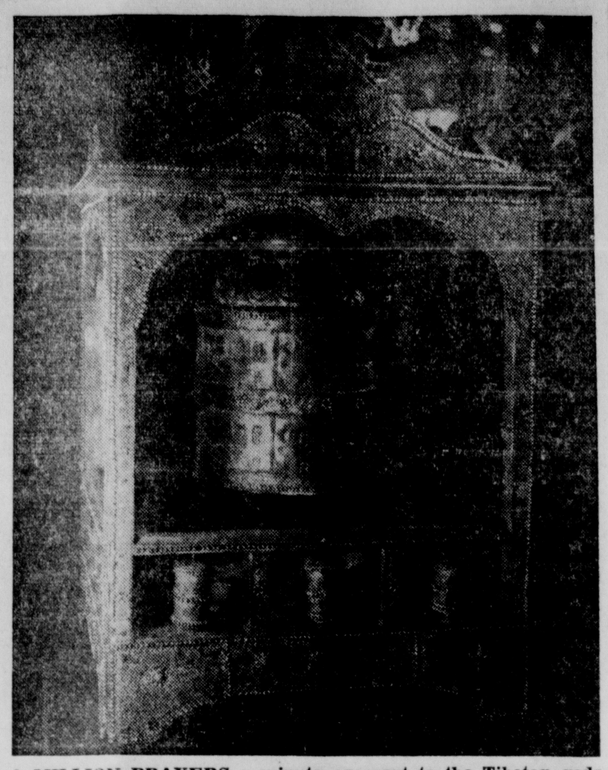
* * *

IT IS UNCERTAIN whether two of Reid's special deputies were members of the indicting grand jury, since Reid has not so far seen fit to let the PAG see his list of deputies.

The general temper and quality of the grand jurors can be deduced from the action of one, Seth D. May, a Lake Charles businessman, who, when out-of-town newspapermen flocked to the Louisiana town to investigate this story of threatened freedom of press and public, snarled:

"If Huey Long were alive, you guys wouldn't even be in town."

One thing is certain: If this medley of hoodlums, gamblers, police and public officials is allowed to get away with this bold assault on citizens' groups in Lake Charles, then the Senate Crime Investigating Committee's request for such groups to help maintain law and order in the land is already up the spout.



A MILLION PRAYERS a minute are sent to the Tibetan gods by this prayer wheel, one of the many priceless objects of art and interest collected by Robert Ripley during his extensive travels to remote lands. A touring exhibit of authentic and original Ripley's "Believe It or Not" oddities, being presented under auspices of the Disabled American Veterans will be displayed on Main and Court streets in Circleville Saturday and Sunday. Admission is free.

Film Carriers To Haul Pies

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6 — The mixture of pies and pastries in the motion picture business started a long time ago, but an Ohio film distribution firm added a new twist today.

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio has granted the film deliveries company in Columbus permission to make deliveries of bakery goods along with their film hauls. It's not that the film gets stale—the pastries do.

Columbus VA Due To Fire 50

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6—Some 50 employes of the Veterans Administration office in Columbus will be discharged effective Oct. 10 in line with a nationwide economy move by the VA.

The 50 are among some 5,000 VA administrative employes who will be discharged in the nation to cut budget expenses. VA medical personnel will not be affected.

Leading Truck Drivers Slated For Contests

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6 — The Buckeye State's best in careful truck drivers will compete Friday and Saturday in the fourth annual state finals of the Ohio Truck Association's "roadeo."

Winners of semi-trailer elimination contests in Cleveland and Akron, the crackerjack drivers come from the ranks of 200 truckers who boast a record of 12 months without a single chargeable accident in 12 million miles.

The drivers will be vying for the title of "Driver of the Year" and the three top winners will become eligible for the national championships in October in Chicago.

The grand champion of the nation and the runnerup get trips to Washington and New York, including a White House visit. The driver of the year gets $50 a month from the ATA for a full year.

The drivers go through the paces of a real contest, back and pulling into almost impossible locations and stop and starting with just enough clearance.

To top it off, the drivers take written and oral examinations. When it's all over, the winning driver—and the majority of other contestants—will have to be top drivers or they won't be there. The boss will be watching.

COLUMBUS PARLEY SET

Ohio PTA Due To Observe Its Golden Anniversary

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6—A gala birthday celebration is in store for the 2,200 delegates expected to attend the 46th annual convention of the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers.

These representatives of Ohio's 425,504 PTA members will arrive in Columbus for the three-day event, Oct. 3-5.

This Golden Jubilee will be an important and impressive milestone in the history of the Ohio organization. A special Golden Jubilee Roster in which delegates will inscribe their names will be kept as a permanent record. In addition, a story of the first 50 years of Ohio PTA history has been written and will be on sale.

The Deshler Wallick hotel will serve as headquarters with the first and fourth sessions and the banquet being held there. The remaining general sessions will be at Memorial Hall. Members of the Columbus and Franklin County council will be hostesses.

The convention will open with a business meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 3 at 10 a. m. At the second session, Mrs. John E. Hayes, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, will deliver the keynote address on the convention theme "Golden Jubilee."

* * *

DELEGATES WILL be welcomed by Mrs. Russell C. Bickel, state president, and greetings extended by Mrs. Harold Marsh, president of Columbus council; James A. Rhodes, mayor of Columbus; Novice G. Fawcett, superintendent of Columbus public schools; and Ernest R. Beck, assistant superintendent of Franklin County schools.

A commemorative vesper service, conducted by Dr. Boynton Merrill, minister of Columbus First Congregational church, will take place at 4 p. m. This service will be especially significant for it was in this church that the Ohio PTA Congress was formed in 1901.

An historical pageant, given by the Columbus public school pupils, will weave the story of the progress of the state PTA organization into the five episodes, prologue and epilogue.

The pageant will be held at 8 p. m. in Central high school auditorium. The traditional play session will be held in the Deshler Wallick following the pageant.

Council presidents will have their breakfast-conference on Thursday, Oct. 4, at 8:30 a. m. while early rising delegates will attend the film festival and later scheduled conferences.

The Rev. William L. Steffans, superintendent, Springfield district, the Methodist church, will address delegates at the third general session at 2 p. m. Representatives of qualifying units will attend a magazine jubilee tea given in their honor at the Gallery of Fine Arts at 4 p. m.

* * *

THE ANNUAL banquet at the Deshler Wallick Hotel will begin at 6 p. m. At the banquet program, Memorial Hall, Harold H. Eibling, second vice-president will serve as master of ceremonies. The Rev. Douglas Horton, minister and executive secretary, general council, Congregational Christian Churches of America, will deliver the address.

The fourth session, a business meeting at 10:30 a. m., Friday, Oct. 5, will follow the annual district breakfasts scheduled for 8:30 a. m. The final session will open at 1:30 p. m. and will feature an address by Miss Ethel Kawin, consultant in parent education, National Congress of Parents and Teachers. Trip To Moon In 25 Years?

LONDON, Sept. 6 — A United States naval officer today is predicting a flight to the moon—and back—by rocket within 25 years.

Lt. Cmdr. Frederick Durant made his prediction before a meeting of the International Congress of Astronautics in London as he read to the congress a lecture by Dr. Wernher Von Braun on inter-planetary flight.

The plan calls for sending a 70-man expedition to the planet.

GOP Senator OKs Dismissal Of MacArthur

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6 — Sen. Morse, (R) Ore., has made public his own report on the MacArthur investigation, saying that the general should have been dismissed but disagreeing with the abrupt method used by President Truman.

Morse declared that MacArthur's March "ultimatum" to the Chinese Communists "destroyed the best chance that the United Nations have had for negotiating an honorable peace in Korea."

The Republican senator reiterated criticism he made on Aug. 18 of a report by eight Republican colleagues on the MacArthur committee who defended the general's action and criticized President Truman.

Morse said that the other GOP findings were "for the most part irrelevant, immaterial and inconsequential as far as having any bearing upon the basic issue involved in the MacArthur investigation."

The Oregon Republican said that the one issue was "did General MacArthur's conduct as field commander in Korea justify his recall?"

Morse said the method of recall was handled wrong — that the general should have been recalled for a conference in Washington to see if differences could be reconciled. If this was not possible, President Truman and MacArthur should have issued a "dignified joint public statement" announcing the general's resignation and explaining the differences.

Morse accused MacArthur of 'misconduct" and said his actions threatened the basic constitutional doctrine of the supremacy of civilian government over the military.

2 Fruit Trees Heavily Laden

Two heavily-laden fruit trees entered the spotlight Wednesday in Circleville.

First to draw attention was a Blue Damsel plum tree in the yard of W. C. Cline, 333 East Ohio street.

The tree is virtually bowed to the ground under its load of plums, which hang like bunches of grapes.

The second tree is reported somewhat of an oddity in the city—a red Haws tree in the yard of Attorney Charles May, 225 South Court street.

The tree, actually a member of the hawthorn family, bears small, red apple-like berries used for making jelly.

6 Youngsters Due To Represent County During 4-H Congress

Pickaway County will be represented by six delegates during the annual Ohio 4-H Club Congress in Ohio State university next week.

The annual congress for outstanding 4-H Club boys and girls in the state will begin Monday on the OSU campus and continue through the following Friday.

Selected to represent Pickaway County during the conference were Joy Eckle of New Holland; Marcie Dearth, Mary Ann Defenbaugh and Donald Maxson of Saltcreek Township; Paul Graffis Jr. of Washington Township; and John Stevenson of Wayne Township.

The six youngsters were selected as delegates for their outstanding work in club activities by the county 4-H advisory council.

The delegates met with County Representative Ed Wallace Wednesday night to receive coaching in legislative operations. The youngsters will invade the statehouse in Columbus during the congress to conduct a mock legislature.

In addition, Yvonne Gibson of Jackson Township is to attend the congress Wednesday to compete for state honors in a talent contest.

Miss Gibson won the district 4-H Club talent test in Chillicothe earlier this year with a performance at the piano.

While attending the club congress, the local delegates will tour the OSU campus, have group discussions concerning 4-H work and recreation programs will be provided every evening

Only 200 Ex-GIs To Attend BG

BOWLING GREEN, Sept. 6— A sharp drop in ex-GI students accounts today for much of the smaller enrollment expected this Fall at Bowling Green State university.

Ralph H. Geer, counselor to veterans and new students, said the university will have 200 veterans this year. Four years ago the peak ex-servicemen enrollment was 1,892.

Enrollment will reach an estimated 3,400 when classes begin Sept. 18. It was 4,235 a year ago.

TRAIL BLAZER— with plenty on the ball

How long since you lifted the hood of a car, and took a good look at what's beneath?

We like to have folks do that with a Buick.

You'll find that broad bonnet isn't put there for show. It's packed with horsepower—high, wide and handsome—more horsepower than normal drivers will ever use in full.

And—if you're up to date on modern features—you'll find that this bonnet is packed with these too.

Do you know, for example, that every new engine introduced or previewed in recent years is built on the valve-in-head principle?

Score one for Buick. No Buick engine has ever been built in any other way.

Do you know what it takes to make full use of high compression? A valve-in-head engine!

Score two: Buick has been stepping up compression ratios for years.

But Buick has blazed one trail which other engines still haven't followed—don't ask us why.

Every Buick has a Fireball Engine which, as we've said before, is like having a string of comets by the tail.

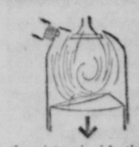
Fact is, in every flame-packed cylinder there is a comet—rolled into a swirling ball by a special turbo-top piston—touched off by a flashing spark every 5 inches you travel in a Buick.

That's why we're proud to show folks that Buicks have a Fireball Engine—and prouder still to have them take one of these thrilling performers out on the road.

Want to try it? Come in and see us soon.

Equipment, accessories, trim and models are subject to change without notice.

The secret of Fireball Power is in the use of dome-and-dip design of the piston shown above.



Here's the piston inside the cylinder. As it moves down, the fuel charge rushes in—sets up a swirl when it hits the piston top.

The piston moves up—compresses the swirling fuel into the comet shape shown here. "Compression ratios" are simply a measure of how much the fuel is compressed.

The ball of fuel is compressed around the spark plug—lets loose its pent-up charge when the spark is fired—delivering a higher percentage of power from each charge of fuel.

COLUMBUS PARLEY SET

Ohio PTA Due To Observe Its Golden Anniversary

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6—A gala birthday celebration is in store for the 2,200 delegates expected to attend the 46th annual convention of the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers.

These representatives of Ohio's 425,504 PTA members will arrive in Columbus for the three-day event, Oct. 3-5.

This Golden Jubilee will be an important and impressive milestone in the history of the Ohio organization. A special Golden Jubilee Roster in which delegates will inscribe their names will be kept as a permanent record. In addition, a story of the first 50 years of Ohio PTA history has been written and will be on sale.

The Deshler Wallick hotel will serve as headquarters with the first and fourth sessions and the banquet being held there. The remaining general sessions will be at Memorial Hall. Members of the Columbus and Franklin County council will be hostesses.

The convention will open with a business meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 3 at 10 a. m. At the second session, Mrs. John E. Hayes, president of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, will deliver the keynote address on the convention theme "Golden Jubilee."

* * *

DELEGATES WILL be welcomed by Mrs. Russell C. Bickel, state president, and greetings extended by Mrs. Harold Marsh, president of Columbus council; James A. Rhodes, mayor of Columbus; Novice G. Fawcett, superintendent of Columbus public schools; and Ernest R. Beck, assistant superintendent of Franklin County schools.

A commemorative vesper service, conducted by Dr. Boynton Merrill, minister of Columbus First Congregational church, will take place at 4 p. m. This service will be especially significant for it was in this church that the Ohio PTA Congress was formed in 1901.

An historical pageant, given by the Columbus public school pupils, will weave the story of the progress of the state PTA organization into the five episodes, prologue and epilogue.

The pageant will be held at 8 p. m. in Central high school auditorium. The traditional play session will be held in the Deshler Wallick following the pageant.

Council presidents will have their breakfast-conference on Thursday, Oct. 4, at 8:30 a. m. while early rising delegates will attend the film festival and later scheduled conferences.

The Rev. William L. Steffans, superintendent, Springfield district, the Methodist church, will address delegates at the third general session at 2 p. m. Representatives of qualifying units will attend a magazine jubilee tea given in their honor at the Gallery of Fine Arts at 4 p. m.

* * *

THE ANNUAL banquet at the Deshler Wallick Hotel will begin at 6 p. m. At the banquet program, Memorial Hall, Harold H. Eibling, second vice-president will serve as master of ceremonies. The Rev. Douglas Horton, minister and executive secretary, general council, Congregational Christian Churches of America, will deliver the address.

The fourth session, a business meeting at 10:30 a. m., Friday, Oct. 5, will follow the annual district breakfasts scheduled for 8:30 a. m. The final session will open at 1:30 p. m. and will feature an address by Miss Ethel Kawin, consultant in parent education, National Congress of Parents and Teachers. The convention will close with the introduction of local chairmen, announcement of the 1952 convention, invitations for the 1953 convention, and installation of elected officers.

COFFLAND BACK ON SQUAD

Tigers Ending Workouts For Friday Grid Preview

Circleville's 1951 Red and Black football team will have a special "under the lights" practice session on the high school gridiron Thursday night.

The special session, due to begin at about 7 p. m., is to prepare the team for the South Central Ohio League preview slated for Friday night in Washington C. H.

Circleville is slated to meet two of its SCOL competitors in the Friday contest, scheduled to tangle with Wilmington gridders at about 8:10 p. m. and Washington C. H. at about 9:10 p. m.

Other teams to show their wares during Friday's pre-season preview are Hillsboro, Greenfield and Franklin. The latter is a non-member school located near Dayton.

Capping its contact drill for the coming preview, only a week in advance of the 1951 Circleville season opener against Columbus Holy Rosary, was a lengthy scrimmage session Wednesday against Upper Arlington in Columbus.

Tiger Coach Steve Brudzinski pointed out that Wednesday's session against Upper Arlington revealed that the Tigers are off their timing and need more teamwork.

• • •

ONLY CASUALTY during the two-hour session was Ted Raymond, backfield hopeful, who suffered a minor chest injury.

Meanwhile, the Circleville line this week has been bolstered by the return of a veteran end, Dave Coffland.

Coffland was ineligible to play ball with Circleville earlier this season when his parents moved into Chillicothe. However, his parents are returning to live in Circleville, making the 185-pound lineman eligible to play his senior year of ball with the Tigers.

Circleville will be fielding a line averaging at 185 pounds in the contest, while the backfield punch will average about 156 pounds.

Featured in the CHS line will be Big Bill Gillis, who tips the scales at about 255 this season. Gillis was moved this year from tackle to center.

Circleville is to receive the kickoffs both times Friday night in its encounters in the preview.

COFFLAND BACK ON SQUAD

Tigers Ending Workouts For Friday Grid Preview

Circleville's 1951 Red and Black football team will have a special "under the lights" practice session on the high school gridiron Thursday night.

The special session, due to begin at about 7 p. m., is to prepare the team for the South Central Ohio League preview slated for Friday night in Washington C. H.

Circleville is slated to meet two of its SCOL competitors in the Friday contest, scheduled to tangle with Wilmington gridders at about 8:10 p. m. and Washington C. H. at about 9:10 p. m.

Other teams to show their wares during Friday's pre-season preview are Hillsboro, Greenfield and Franklin. The latter is a non-member school located near Dayton.

Capping its contact drill for the coming preview, only a week in advance of the 1951 Circleville season opener against Columbus Holy Rosary, was a lengthy scrimmage session Wednesday against Upper Arlington in Columbus.

Tiger Coach Steve Brudzinski pointed out that Wednesday's session against Upper Arlington revealed that the Tigers are off their timing and need more teamwork.

• • •

ONLY CASUALTY during the two-hour session was Ted Raymond, backfield hopeful, who suffered a minor chest injury.

Meanwhile, the Circleville line this week has been bolstered by the return of a veteran end, Dave Coffland.

Coffland was ineligible to play ball with Circleville earlier this season when his parents moved into Chillicothe. However, his parents are returning to live in Circleville, making the 185-pound lineman eligible to play his senior year of ball with the Tigers.

Circleville will be fielding a line averaging at 185 pounds in the contest, while the backfield punch will average about 156 pounds.

Featured in the CHS line will be Big Bill Gillis, who tips the scales at about 255 this season. Gillis was moved this year from tackle to center.

Circleville is to receive the kickoffs both times Friday night in its encounters in the preview.

Tribe In Lead Again As Sox Creep Upward

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—Somebody had better not tell the Boston Red Sox how close they are or they might pull their annual pennant blow-out.

The Bosox, who apparently have forgotten how to choke up at the mere mention of "Yankee," are still a strong possibility in the American League marathon because of it.

The Sockers, who thrive on fat pay checks and an ability to crack up under pressure, are four games away from slippery first place.

If they continue to play winning ball against New York, the Red Sox have a good chance of making the Cleveland Indians and anybody else in their way take second money.

Steve O'Neill's well-paid hirelings made it 10 wins in 14 tries Wednesday night when they downed the world champions, 4-2, and pushed them back into second place. Cleveland moved back on top a game to the good by beating the Detroit Tigers, 5-2.

* * *

VIC RASCHI, after win 18, got clipped early by the Bosox. Billy Goodman sent home two runs with a first-inning double. Williams, back in action after a tussle with the grippe, blasted his 28th homer in the third to clinch it.

The Indians got the same old good pitching, but their stuttering batting attack functioned, too, for a change. Early Wynn pitched four-hit ball, incuding a homer by Dick Kryhoski, to notch his 17th.

In the batting department, Luke Easter blasted a two-run homer in the second and Al Rosen capped a three-run outburst in the third with a two-run homer, his 24th.

Brooklyn Dodgers lost a half game in standings even though they beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-2, because the New York Giants swept the Boston Braves in two, 3-2 and 9-1. The Dodger advantage is now only 5 1-2 games.

Gil Hodges' 37th homer, with the bases loaded in the fifth, brought Ralph Branca his 13th win.

* * *

THE SCRAMBLE among the "way down yonder" boys in both leagues also remained interesting.

In the National, the Cincinnati Reds moved into sixth place and dropped Pittsburgh (alone) into the cellar when they beat the Bucs, 6-3. Ralph Kiner hit No. 38 in the losing cause.

The Cubs, seventh placers, snapped a seven-game winning streak of the St. Louis Cardinals with a 3-2 defeat in an eleven-inning first game.

But the third place Red Birds got to winning again when they took the nightcap, 6-5. Hank Sauer hit two homers for the Cubs and Phil Cavarretta hit one. Stan Musial and Peanuts Lowery connected for the Cards.

In the American League, the Philadelphia Athletics went into sixth place and moved Washington out as they beat the Senators twice, 4-1 and 9-7.

Season Tickets To Go On Sale

A final batch of season reserved seat tickets for Circleville high school's six home football games this Fall will go on sale Saturday in Court-Main restaurant.

CHS Stooge Clubbers, handling the reserve ducat sales, will be on hand in the local restaurant from 8 a. m. until 6 p. m. Saturday to offer the tickets for sale.

Only about 40 of the reserve seat tickets remain to be sold, while persons who have spoken to have tickets laid back are to pick them up Saturday.

Buck Freshmen Boosted To Keep Veterans On Toes

COLUMBUS, Sept. 6 — The freshmen are stealing the limelight in the opening phases of football practice in Ohio State university.

On the heels of his prediction that he will use more frosh then most elevens, Coach Woody Hayes boosted three hopefuls to the varsity in what appears to be a long-range incentive program to keep the Buckeyes on the alert.

The trio are guards Tom Leo of Canton South and Jim Reichenbach of Massillon; and Doug Goodsell, Upper Arlington back.

Although the three are advanced for this stage of training, Hayes said he wants them to work out with the regulars for the experience. He lauded the linemen, Reichenbach and Leo, as "a pair of the fastest and toughest kids we have around."

Two other newcomers came in for their share of attention from the Buck mentor for their defensive line-backing. They were Dave Leggett of New Philadelphia and John Borton of Alliance.

Other potential varsity material showed up in Wednesday's sessions. Ironton's John Shelton, an exceptional punter, added defensive half know-how, while Jerry Krisher and Jim Schumacher, both from Massillon's champions, caught Hayes' eye as varsity linemen.

Motley Is Back In Brown Lineup

BOWLING GREEN, Sept. 6—Marion Motley will return to his number one fullback spot in the Cleveland Browns' backfield when the National League champions take on the Chicago Bears in an exhibition game Sunday in Chicago.

The massive fullback, forced to step aside for young Emerson Cole at the beginning of the season, will also probably play first string against the pass-minded Los Angeles Rams when they drop into Cleveland a week from Friday night.

Cole, who was injured late in the Detroit Lions game this week, may have to sit on the bench for the next several weeks. His injury was diagnosed as a severe sprain.

Mexican Cagers Play Barefoot

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Sept. 6—Basketball, Mexican style, is pretty rough on a youngster's "dogs."

John Lawther, former Penn State coach who is currently in Mexico on a government-sponsored teaching-coaching tour, claims half the high school age players there refuse to wear shoes.

Tribe In Lead Again As Sox Creep Upward

NEW YORK, Sept. 6—Somebody had better not tell the Boston Red Sox how close they are or they might pull their annual pennant blow-out.

The Bosox, who apparently have forgotten how to choke up at the mere mention of "Yankee," are still a strong possibility in the American League marathon because of it.

The Sockers, who thrive on fat pay checks and an ability to crack up under pressure, are four games away from slippery first place.

If they continue to play winning ball against New York, the Red Sox have a good chance of making the Cleveland Indians and anybody else in their way take second money.

Steve O'Neill's well-paid hirelings made it 10 wins in 14 tries Wednesday night when they downed the world champions, 4-2, and pushed them back into second place. Cleveland moved back on top a game to the good by beating the Detroit Tigers, 5-2.

VIC RASCHI, after win 18, got clipped early by the Bosox. Billy Goodman sent home two runs with a first-inning double. Williams, back in action after a tussle with the grippe, blasted his 28th homer in the third to clinch it.

The Indians got the same old good pitching, but their stuttering batting attack functioned, too, for a change. Early Wynn pitched four-hit ball, incuding a homer by Dick Kryhoski, to notch his 17th.

In the batting department, Luke Easter blasted a two-run homer in the second and Al Rosen capped a three-run outburst in the third with a two-run homer, his 24th.

Brooklyn Dodgers lost a half game in standings even though they beat the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-2, because the New York Giants swept the Boston Braves in two, 3-2 and 9-1. The Dodger advantage is now only 5 1-2 games.

THE SCRAMBLE among the "way down yonder" boys in both leagues also remained interesting.

In the National, the Cincinnati Reds moved into sixth place and dropped Pittsburgh (alone) into the cellar when they beat the Bucs, 6-3. Ralph Kiner hit No. 38 in the losing cause.

The Cubs, seventh placers, snapped a seven-game winning streak of the St. Louis Cardinals with a 3-2 defeat in an eleven-inning first game.

But the third place Red Birds got to winning again when they took the nightcap, 6-5. Hank Sauer hit two homers for the Cubs and Phil Cavarretta hit one. Stan Musial and Peanuts Lowery connected for the Cards.

In the American League, the Philadelphia Athletics went into sixth place and moved Washington out as they beat the Senators twice, 4-1 and 9-7.

Air Tour To Show County's Biggest Industry—The Farm

Wednesday Booked As Flight Day

Conservation Agency Sponsoring Program

Next Wednesday has been set aside as "flight day" for Pickaway countians.

On that day the roar of airplane engines will be heard over the county's farm lands as Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public—and Junior, too—take off from Thomas airport west of Circleville for a bird's eye view of problems connected with the way the land is being used.

It will all be part of the first annual Soil Conservation Air Tour. According to J. A. Muster, local soil conservation head:

"Plans are complete and all that is left to chance is the weather. If it should prove unfavorable on Sept. 12, the event will be scheduled for Sept. 14."

To provide a few representatives of Pickaway County industry, business and agriculture with an idea of how the flights will be conducted and what the public might expect to see, trial runs over the course were made Tuesday.

* * *

PILOT ON these runs was Richard Burdwell of Columbus, flying a four-place state plane.

The plane flew over 11 points of interest, from a soil conservation standpoint. Persons who take advantage of the flights next Wednesday probably will have more than that number pointed out to them, according to Muster.

"The air tour is presented as a public service to residents of Pickaway County so that they may gain an awareness of the land problems that exist in the county," he said.

"The tour will be about 55 miles in length and will take about 30 minutes to fly. Maps showing points of interest and describing features of each point will be given each tourist, who will be briefed orally before taking off."

And when he takes off——

He will feel the plane jarring beneath him as the pilot taxies to the end of the takeoff strip at Thomas airport. There will be a brief wait at the end, a gradually increasing roar as the pilot opens the throttle and runs an experienced eye over the row of instruments before him.

* * *

THEN THERE will be movement again. The passenger will notice a row of fence posts begin to slip by at ever increasing speed. The ground will blur. Then abruptly it will come into focus again, begin to drop away. He will be airbourne.

After the first few seconds, the passenger will stop fingering his safety belt, begin to look around. There, behind him, is Circleville, a cluster of roofs and spires and smudges of industrial smoke.

He will perhaps be a little surprised at the pool table flatness of Pickaway County, sweeping out and up on all sides to the hazy ring of the horizon.

Below him the fields will look like patches in a giant crazy quilt, pierced by needle-straight Route 22, bordered and hemmed by county and township roads.

Referring to his map the passenger will find the William Barthelmas farm marked as the first point of interest. Looking down he will find himself getting a bird's eye view of a new farm pond and the neat, geometric design of a farm under a four-year rotation plan: corn, wheat, meadow and meadow.

* * *

SECOND INTEREST point will be indicated over the Dean Godden purebred livestock farm. The passenger will find himself staring down at a series of snaky lines, which the map tells him are terraces. It tells him further that the Godden farm is nearly all in grass.

Under the soil conservation plan the terraces are constructed to slow down the water runoff.

"With terraces we walk the water off, where before it used to run," explained Muster.

Other points of interest the passenger will view during his flight will be:

The Russell Wardell farm with terraces on the west and at the rear of his home. This farm also is under a rotation plan.

The Paul G. Peck farm, where a new pond and terraces have been built.

H. H. Ater farm, terraces and rotation.

Clarence Bidwell farm, a new drainage ditch along a woods and rotation.

Dr. C. H. Lose farm, a new pond. Here the entire farm going to grass.

James D. Fortney dairy farm, rotation.

Orient state hospital.

Gardner Wilder farm, new pole barn, two miles of multiflora rose fence and 2,500 trees planted.

* * *

IN A WORD, the flights next Wednesday will give Pickaway Countians a knowledge of their home grounds that they could not even hope to get by auto.

The trips will show just what the U.S. Soil Conservation Service is doing for farmers who sign up with it. The relationships between different land areas in Pickaway County will be clearly visible to passengers on the flights.

The flights will start about 9 a. m., continue on until dusk. Cost per passenger will be $3.

"Arrangements have been made for chairs for those awaiting their turn to fly and for those who come just to visit," Muster said. "A stand for serving light lunch and drinks is planned.

Four-place airplanes will be used, flown by experienced, licensed commercial pilots."

Several farm machinery firms have indicated that they will have modern equipment to display.

* * *

THE PICKAWAY air tour is sponsored by the soil conservation district, local service clubs, all banks in the county, agricultural extension service, Production and Marketing Administration, implement dealers and the Ohio aviation board. Muster said:

"It is hoped the air tour will be more than a thrill. The real purpose is to give our people a new look at this land on which we live and depend upon for sustenance; and to instill a desire to make it more useful, more fertile, more profitable—a better place in which to live. The public is invited to participate."

Gentile Name To Be Preserved

DAYTON, Sept. 6—The memory of Major Don Gentile, Ohio's famed World War II ace, will be perpetuated by the Airforce.

Official approval has been received from Washington for changing the name of the 862nd Airforce Specialized Depot near Dayton to Gentile Airforce Specialized Depot.

The Piqua native was killed last January in the crash of a jet plane on a routine flight near Washington. As a pilot with the Royal Canadian Airforce and later with the U.S. Airforce, Gentile was credited with destroying 26 German planes.

Newest Stamp Honors Chemists

The new stamp, a reddish-brown three-cent sticker, is double size and issued in commemoration of the diamond anniversary of the American Chemical Society.

Pictures on the new stamp is a group of industrial buildings, along with laboratory equipment and the emblem of the organization in the middle.

State Ruling To Hike Filing Fee Schedule

The increase in the cost of living has gone a little farther.

Under a new law passed by the state legislature, the pinch of higher costs will be felt after Friday in increased fees for recording deeds, mortgages, etc. in Pickaway County recorder's office.

The law, which becomes effective Friday, changes the fee for manually recording, or through use of the typewriter, from 12 cents per 100 words to 25 cents, and from five cents to 10 cents for each name indexed.

For photocopy recording the charge will be 60 cents per page, with no fee for indexing. For certifying copy from records the fee will be 25 cents per 100 words.

Fee for filing and canceling chattel mortgages, either original or refiling, will be upped from 45 cents to 50 cents. For filing sworn statement, assignment, etc., the fee will be 25 cents. No fee will be charged for canceling.
